ISRAEL'S BEN GURION LEAVES 'DOOR OPEN'

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Premier David Ben Gurion tonight rejected any demand that Israel withdraw from the Gaza Strip or the Gulf of Aqaba "without assurances."

But he told the Knesset (parliament) that he hopes the "door to further discussion" with the United States is still open.

The prime minister said Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the U.S., will return to Washington Friday to present the Israeli government's views to the Eisenhower administration in a new effort to reach an understanding. (See Page 3.)

Ontario Hikes Tax on Gasoline

First Major Changes in 18 Years;
Okays New Federal Income Tax Pact

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario today announced its first major tax changes in 18 years, imposing an 11-per-cent levy on corporation income for the first time in recent history and increasing its gasoline tax two cents a gallon to 13 cents. The gas tax boost is effective at 12:01 a.m. Friday.

ONT. BOOSTS AID TO CITIES

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will increase assistance to municipalities by $33,700,000 to $213,900,000 this year and will insist that some of its grants benefit only home and farm owners.

Provincial Treasurer Porter, announcing the changes in his budget address to the Ontario legislature, estimated they will swell provincial revenues by $98,500,000.

No Foreign Troops Can Land—Nehru

AKOLA, India (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today India will never allow foreign troops to land in India again.

Commenting on the latest Kashmir developments in the United Nations, he told an election rally: "I want the whole world to know India will not allow any foreign troops to enter India or Kashmir whatever might happen and whatever be the consequences of this stand of ours."

Socreds Doubt B.C. Plans New Tax

Government sources and Socred members were skeptical today over a CCF statement issued late Wednesday night that B.C.'s government is planning to enter the personal income tax and corporation tax fields after the federal-provincial agreement expires March 31.

They pointed to a passage in the Throne Speech which said conferences during the past year between the federal and provincial governments on a new tax-rental agreement have "improved slightly the original terms."

"This does not indicate the tax-rental agreement will not be renewed," one source said.

OTHERS OMITTED

It was also pointed out that other legislative policies were omitted from the Throne Speech, including the question of aid to the University of British Columbia and the Wenner-Gren northern development.

PORTUGUESE STORK TATTLING ON QUEEN?

VILLA FRANCA, Portugal (AP)—A stork flew low over Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh here Wednesday.

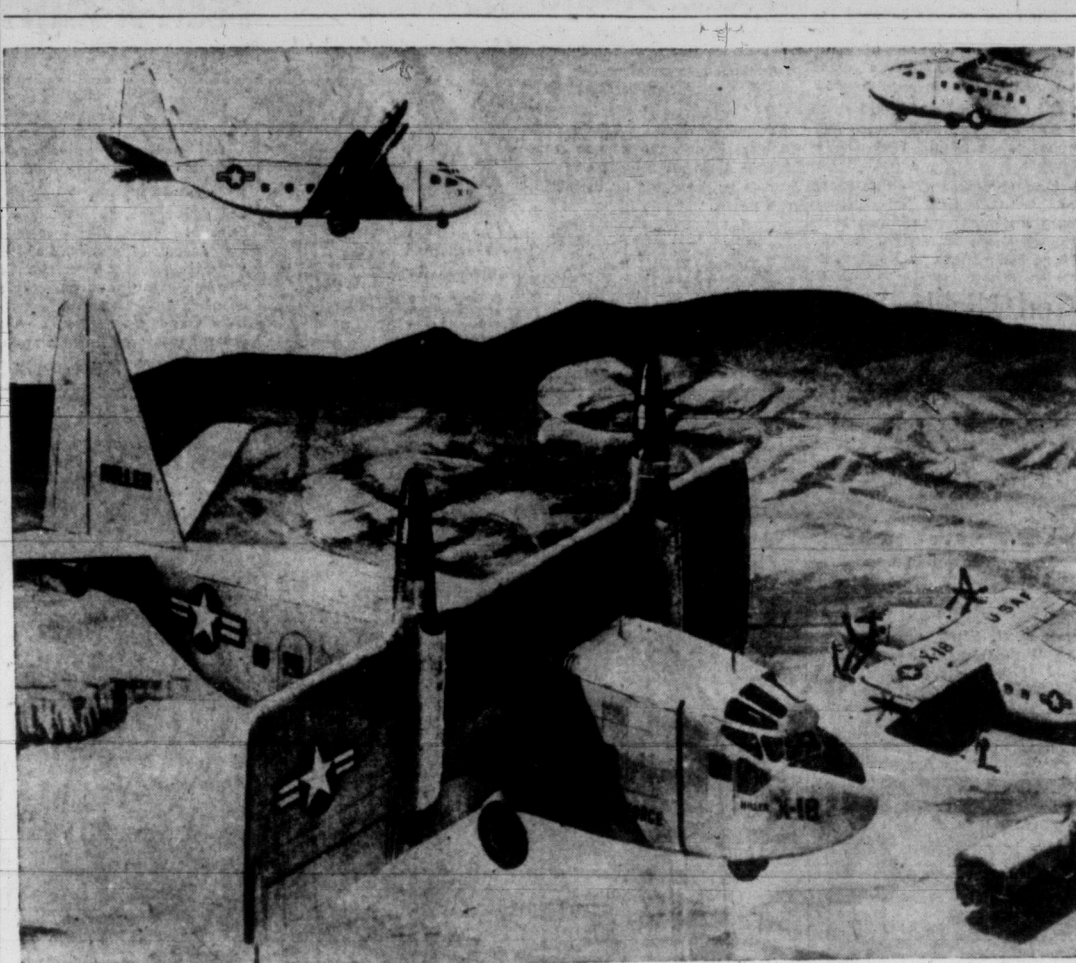

In Portugal the presence of a stork means only one thing—an addition to the family.

RUNAWAY U.S. ROCKET CRASHES IN COLORADO

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A runaway U.S. air force rocket roared out of control over New Mexico today and crashed, probably in western Colorado.

The missile was the air force Matador. The Matador was fired at 9:12 a.m., PST, today and escaped all controls eight minutes later. It had fuel for little over an hour's flight.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will allow United States jet interceptors equipped with the new atomic rockets to fly over Canadian territory in the event of an emergency, a high defence authority said today.

The authority said that emergency meant war in which the

Driver Cleared In Tot's Death

Death of three-year-old Wayne Clifford, who rode a tricycle from his driveway Monday afternoon and was crushed beneath the rear wheels of an oil truck, was ruled accidental by a coroner's jury today.

Driver Barry H. Kaehn, 1963, Costin, Langford, testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act that he had been about to make an oil delivery at the Clifford home, 1141 Palmer, when he saw the child playing in the driveway. He continued to the next house before backing and turning because he "felt it was safer."

Mr. Kaehn said he did not feel the child pass beneath the wheels. He looked from the cab window and saw a tiny bundle at the side of the road, but recalled, "I thought it was just a coat—until I got out of the truck and looked again."

The small boy "must have come just like lightning," he said.

Saanich Const. Norman Baker told the jury the truck driver was in a "mild state of hysteria" when he arrived at the scene at 1:50 p.m. Rear view windows on both sides of the cab were in good condition, he said.

Funeral of the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clifford, will be held Saturday at 3, at McCall's.

2nd Suspect Held In Bank Hold-Up

Second suspect in connection with the Feb. 11 armed robbery of $3,000 from James Bay branch of the Bank of Commerce was arrested in Vancouver at 2:30 a.m. today.

Two detectives were sent to the mainland this morning to bring the 25-year-old man back following his arrest in a hotel room by Vancouver detectives.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Chicago Cubs today announced jointly a plan whereby the Dodgers would acquire Wrigley Field in Los Angeles for a possible transfer of the Brooklyn franchise.

WENNER-GREN INTERVIEWED

'For Benefit Of Mankind'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver newspaper dispatch from Mexico City quotes Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren as reiterating Wednesday that he regards his vast development scheme for northern British Columbia as an opportunity to tap hidden resources for the benefit of mankind, not just a personal money-making venture.

Dr. Wenner-Gren was interviewed in his office in Mexico City, the headquarters for his world-wide interests.

"All my assets will go to philanthropic and altruistic foundations," Dr. Wenner-Gren said.

BORN IN 20s

He said the idea for a $1,000,000,000 hydro and mineral development in the Rocky Mountain Trench from northern B.C. to the Yukon border was conceived during visits to Canada in the 1920s and 1940s.

Dr. Wenner-Gren denied he showed Nazi sympathies during the Second World War.

"My personal guess is that it was purely personal animosity by one of the top officials in Washington."

"I have always been outspoken in my anti-Communist sentiments and at that time the Communists had infiltrated into and had great influence in the state department."

Ike May Have Aggravated UN Problems

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Developments at the United Nations to try to dampen down the Israeli-Egyptian powder keg are viewed by the Canadian government with grave concern.

The cabinet is keeping a close and almost constant communication with Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs who now is back in New York.

President Eisenhower's address Wednesday night did little to ease the tenseness of the international situation. In fact he may have aggravated the problems confronting the United Nations, it was suggested here in informed circles.

Before leaving Ottawa late Wednesday Mr. Pearson expressed the view that the time had not arrived for a resolution to be introduced at the UN to apply sanctions on Israel to try and force that country to withdraw.

All other possibilities for bringing about agreed withdrawal of Israeli forces should be thoroughly explored, he said.

The Canadian government view is that it would be both "premature and unwise" to consider a proposal for sanctions against Israel at this time.

Another suggestion is that Canada should supply naval units to patrol the Gulf of Aqaba.

This has been greeted with an extremely unenthusiastic response here.

The suggestion is believed to have resulted from the fact that Mr. Pearson previously proposed that a UN naval force might patrol the gulf to encourage the Israeli government to withdraw its forces.

Apparently some delegations at the UN and some correspondents at New York, interpreted Mr. Pearson's plan to mean that only Canadian naval vessels would be used.

Canada is not anxious to supply naval vessels and now has standing by an army reconnaissance unit which has been requested by the UN. It is understood this unit will not be despatched until the present situation has been clarified.

Arab states in the UN calling for sanctions against Israel are said to be preparing to introduce such a resolution when the assembly meets Friday.

Ike Assailed in U.K. UN Guarantees Urged

LONDON (AP)—President Eisenhower was assailed in parliament today on the ground he failed to consult Britain before his policy statement calling on Israeli troops to withdraw from Egyptian territory.

Aneurin Bevan, Labor foreign policy spokesman, demanded that Britain notify America "it is a very undesirable pattern that the United States should be issuing statements about policy without consulting her allies."

Emanuel Shinwell, defence minister in the former Labor government, said there is "no reason why this House should condone any mistake made by President Eisenhower."

Hugh Fraser, Conservative, said "I think the question of forcing Israel back without proper guarantees for Israel's future is not acceptable..."

Their statements were made shortly after the foreign office said it felt Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory should be combined with a United Nations guarantee of Israel's security in the Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza Strip areas.

500 BALLOTS NOW IN

How Do YOU Vote on Deal?

More than 500 Times readers have voted so far in the public opinion poll regarding the proposal of Axel Wenner-Gren for a multi-million dollar development of British Columbia's northland.

The B.C. government has placed a reserve on some 40,000 square miles in the Omineca region until such time as the Wenner-Gren company does a $5,000,000 survey to determine what assets it needs for a monorail and industrial development.

The heavy mail response today indicated the widespread interest in the scheme and the sharp feelings of people about it.

Tabulation of the ballots began today, but it was decided no results will be published until the voting is closed. The ballot appears for the last time below and it is likely results will appear on Saturday.

Here is the ballot:

Do you think it is wise to tie up an area of this size for the benefit of one group of interests? YES ☐ NO ☐

Do you think B.C. should enter into any deal with the Wenner-Gren interests? YES ☐ NO ☐

Do you think it morally right that Einar Gunderson, executive vice-president of the publicly-owned PGE Railway, and a member of the B.C. Toll Bridge Authority should be a director of the Wenner-Gren Development firm? YES ☐ NO ☐

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

What's Up, Eric?
(Correction) Doc

Should a member of the B.C. cabinet have a Bugs Bunny book on his desk?

This searching question was raised Wednesday by Randolph Harding, fiery CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan.

Just what Bugs Bunny had to do with Mr. Harding's argument was none too clear. But it seemed to imply that if cabinet ministers can accommodate Bugs Bunny books on their desks they should be able to accommodate out-of-town members of the legislature who call on them between sessions.

Mr. Harding said he called on a minister who had hitherto been too busy to see him.

Ministers Away Fighting Elections

"And when they get here," he added, "they may find the ministers away—fighting an election in some other province... They are our members as much as ministers of the province and every member of this House has a right to see them."

The title of Prime Minister was conferred on Premier Bennett Wednesday by no less a person than George Gregory, Liberal MLA for Victoria.

Mr. Gregory believed if Mr. Bennett were called Prime Minister it would lend more dignity to the House and

'Smear, Smear, Smear', Says Page

What do the uniformed page boys who run messages in the legislature think of the current session?

Mr. Gregory was curious to know. He stopped one of the boys and asked him.

"Oh," said the boy, "it's all smear, smear, smear."

Women occupied most of the seats in the public galleries during the second night sitting of the session and their eyes focused naturally on the dresses worn by the two lady members of the House—Mrs. Lois Haggen, who has succeeded her husband as the CCF member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, and Mrs.

(he was looking in the direction of Health Minister Eric Martin) and there on his desk was Bugs Bunny.

Without delving deeper into the virtues of Bugs Bunny as part of a cabinet minister's office equipment, Mr. Harding complained that MLAs had to come to Victoria six months before a session opened in order to get things done for their constituents.

He was checked by Premier Bennett, who told him members should visit Victoria once every month.

This nettled Mr. Harding. He said members in distant ridings could not afford to come here every month.

everyone (including the prime minister) would "behave better" in consequence.

The Liberal member then implemented his suggestion by referring to Mr. Bennett as Prime Minister throughout the remainder of the sitting.

The Prime Minister made no comment, but Attorney-General Robert Bonner graciously accepted the designation on his behalf.

"This designation has been used officially for many years but it has never been insisted upon," Mr. Bonner said. "It is a fair designation and it is accepted with the good heart in which it was intended."

Buda Brown, who has replaced Liberal leader Arthur Laing as the member for Vancouver-Point Grey.

Queen, Duke
At Oporto

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh returned to Britain tonight from their tour of Portugal.

Oporto, Portugal (CP)—Queen Elizabeth bounced around the cobblestone streets of Oporto in an old police truck today as she brought her state visit to Portugal to a close.

The Queen, visiting this port wine centre on her way home to London, chose the truck herself.

It was the only vehicle town officials could supply when the Queen asked for an open car so the people could see her. Normally, the truck is used to transport police squads to trouble spots.

Shouting crowds covered the roads with rose petals as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, bounced on a hard wooden bench through town.

At Oporto's 100-year-old stock exchange, 50,000 persons crowded around the royal couple.

The Queen and duke spent about two hours here before climbing back into their four-engine Viscount airliner to continue their flight to London.

Civil Service Pay
Hike for Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—A general pay increase totalling about $1,000,000 for Manitoba's civil servants was disclosed in the provincial estimates tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Provincial Treasurer C. E. Greenlaw. The pay increases come very close to the demands made by the civil servants, it was understood.

For most civil servants it will mean a pay increase of between $10 and $30 a month.

Sen. Aseltine 'Miffed' Stalks Out of Chamber

(From Times News Services)

Senator Walter Aseltine, lawyer-farmer from Rosetown, Sask., stalked from the Senate Wednesday at the height of a storm during a dispute between two Progressive-Conservative over wheat marketing policies.

Aseltine departed after Opposition Leader John T. Haig referred to him as "a very wealthy man" who doesn't need to worry about wheat surpluses.

Later Senator Aseltine denied to a reporter that he had left in anger at his leader, but observers said he was obviously annoyed.

Speaking before Senator Haig, he had denied the Canadian Wheat Board and said that although wheat was "piled up" in the west the surplus would disappear with orderly marketing.

Then the Opposition leader, a 79-year-old Winnipeg lawyer, attacked the board's compulsory powers and said Canada couldn't get rid of her 800,000-bushel wheat surplus. Ordinary farmers could not operate on the amounts of wheat they were allowed to deliver.

"It is all right for a gentleman like the honorable member from Rosetown, who happens to be a very wealthy man and can afford to have his grain stuffed in the elevators from 1951 to date," said Senator Haig. "He does not need the money."

At that point Senator Aseltine, a farmer since 1919, waved his arm at his leader, who stood beside him, and said, "You do not need to say that." He picked up his papers and walked out when Senator Haig continued in the same vein.

Liberal Blasts Crop-Failure Aid

In the House a difference of opinion was shown within the Liberal party when Hugh A. MacKenzie (Lambton-Kent) strongly criticized the government's program of crop-failure aid to western farmers.

He spoke on a resolution prior to introduction of a bill to increase payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act.

If PFAA could not be extended across Canada, the federal government should step out of the field and leave it to the provinces, he said. "I'll work against it and vote against it and do anything I can," he said.

Mr. MacKenzie said probably well over $500,000,000 in federal money was spent from 1935 to 1956 to help Prairie farmers through various programs. "That's not bad," he said. But other parts of agriculture were not so well off.

Last year corn growers in Southwestern Ontario had been unable to harvest thousands of acres of corn because of frost. Tobacco growers had suffered hail damage. Two years ago most of the area's bean crop was lost.

He said he had been told there could be no federal assistance, that it was a provincial matter.

Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary South) commented that the speech will be good election material to use against Liberal candidates in the West during the next election campaign.

The PFAA resolution was adopted without a vote and the bill was introduced. Under it, farmers' contributions to the PFAA fund would not be increased from the one-per-cent levy on grain deliveries.

The measure proposes three levels of payments for varying degrees of crop loss, based on average wheat yields in a township.

Health Minister Martin indicated Wednesday that Manitoba has not yet accepted federal proposals for a hospital insurance plan.

He replied "no" when Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) asked whether discussions with the Manitoba government have reached the point where an announcement can be made.

Stahl Denies Edmonton Firm Stock Fraud

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times today quotes Charles R. Stahl, 35, as denying charges of stock fraud in connection with the operations of a Canadian mining company.

The dispatch from Rio de Janeiro quotes Stahl as saying he will appear in court in New York March 21 "to defend my good name."

A New York court order, granted Monday, has tied up New York assets of Stahl, Miles and Company Ltd. of Edmonton, a brokerage firm formed by Stahl and Marcel Adam Miles of Edmonton.

Last November Stahl resigned as chairman of the New York brokerage house of De Ponet and Company Inc. That firm, along with the Edmonton company, traded in stock of Green Bay Mining and Exploration Ltd., of which Stahl was a director.

Stahl said that when he left New York Nov. 20 to live in Brazil he and his family directly or indirectly owned 400,000 shares of the 962,000 Green Bay shares in public hands.

The stock originally was sold in Canada and Europe at 60 to 75 cents a share, Stahl said. His own purchases were made at an average of $10 a share.

The stock, now worth 50 cents, traded at $12.50 last July.

SEN. WALTER ASELTINE
... he walked out.

He told a reporter later he has a large amount of wheat in storage, but is not worried about it.

The Senate debate was on a government bill to extend for five years from next July 31 the compulsory marketing powers of the wheat board. The measure was given second reading—approval in principle—without a vote but with Senator Haig calling out "on division." That is a parliamentary device for showing disapproval without forcing a vote.

Mr. Martin travel to Winnipeg for talks but the minister said that is not necessary.

Implementation of the hospital insurance plan requires approval by at least six provinces with a majority of Canada's population. Thus either Ontario or Quebec would have to accept, since they have more than half the country's population.

So far the three westernmost provinces and Newfoundland have accepted the federal offer to pay half the costs of the plan.

Trade Minister Howe said he does not expect Canada will be shipping uranium for two or three years to six European countries now negotiating an agreement to pool their resources in an atomic power industry.

Replying to Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), he said a three-man delegation representing the proposed pool to be known as Euratom—visited Ottawa last week to discuss the Canadian approach to atomic power and inquire whether Canada would be able to supply uranium.

The government has almost $5,000,000 on its hands in unclaimed war savings certificates.

A government return tabled for Gordon K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough) said 689,412 certificates were unclaimed as of Jan. 31. They had a par value of $4,804,300.

Consumer spending on liquor in 1955 amounted to $37.82 for every man, woman and child in Canada. The per-capita spending on tobacco that year was $29.68.

In the previous year, Canada's per-capita expenditure on formal education was $46.41.

These estimated figures, latest available for a complete year, were tabled for A. H. Nicholson (CCF-Mackenzie).

Total spending was $902,000,000 on liquor and $463,000,000 on tobacco in 1955 and $705,200,000 on formal education in 1954.

Oil Dividends Hinted By Alberta Premier

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning has hinted that Alberta citizens may get individual dividends — their share in the province's $615,000,000 oil bonanza.

The premier, speaking Wednesday during the legislature's throne speech debate, said the provincial treasury has been enriched by $615,000,000 in the last 10 years from oil revenue.

He said another $16,000,000 a year could be earned in oil royalties if pipeline capacity were increased.

He said that increasing the individual's share in natural resources would be one part of a proposed revamping of provincial-municipal revenues and responsibilities.

He declined to expand on his hint in later questioning by reporters.

Eisenhower Hints U.S. Ready For Showdown on Israel

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday night "the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure upon Israel" to get her troops out of disputed Middle East areas.

Eisenhower thus hinted that the United States is ready, if a showdown comes, to support some kind of United Nations sanctions against Israel for her failure thus far to heed UN demands to withdraw.

But the president coupled the hint with a statement that "we still hope" Israel will accept United States assurances and go along with the UN demands.

Eisenhower spoke in a half-hour radio-television report on his administration's efforts to settle the latest Middle East crisis without sanctions against Israel.

He opened his talk, broadcast world-wide by the Voice of America, with the solemn statement: "The future of the United Nations and peace in the Middle East may be at stake."

Eisenhower's talk went step by step over the situation as he saw it. In a warning to Israel he said: "The United Nations must not fail."

"I believe that—in the interests of peace—the United Nations has no choice but to exert pressure upon Israel to comply with the withdrawal resolutions."

A WAY OUT

And then he offered the Israeli's a way out: "Of course, we still hope that the government of Israel will see that its best immediate and long-term interests lie in compliance with the United Nations and in placing its trust in the resolutions of the United Nations and in the declaration of the United States with reference to the future."

Eisenhower spoke shortly after the UN announced a postponement, the third this week, of General Assembly debate on the question of sanctions against Israel. The announcement said that at the request of the U.S. debate was being put off from today until Friday on an Asian-African bloc move to impose UN economic strictures against Israel in an effort to force withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Gaza Strip and the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Way to Disaster

IT IS COMMONLY SAID THAT Canada's tight-money policy has depressed the great timber industries of British Columbia. In fact, the depressing factors come mostly from other nations over which the Canadian Government has no control whatever. And it is in those nations that our timber industries are tending to price themselves, by their wage-price spiral, out of the market.

Mr. B. M. Hoffmeister, chairman of MacMillan and Bloedel Limited, tells the shareholders of that great industrial empire that "the outlook for lumber in export markets continues to be poor. Possibly the most serious influence is the high level of ocean freights, which has increased by about 120 per cent since mid-1954. The indications are for continued high rates for several years at least."

Again, says Mr. Hoffmeister, the British market for Canadian lumber has declined as a result of Britain's financial difficulties. "Our trade with the United Kingdom," he reports, "now consists almost entirely of special sizes and grades that are purchased here only because they are not available from the smaller trees grown in the Baltic."

In other words, our high-cost product is meeting drastic competition in markets far beyond the reach of the Canadian Government's credit policies.

At present, Mr. Hoffmeister says, the United States is the only "volume market available to us" but there, too, British Columbia lumber meets serious competitive barriers.

The net result of these foreign influences is to reduce world lumber prices by some 10 to 15 per cent in the last year. Mr. Hoffmeister expects a shrinking lumber output, lower prices and lower earnings in the next year.

Looking forward to this year's wage negotiations, he says that "it is most important that both labor and management approach negotiations with open minds and determined to arrive at the facts. To state that the outlook in markets for forest products is poor is not an exaggeration, particularly respecting lumber and plywood. While arguments will be presented on both sides, it should be recognized that the industry is in a critical period, during which every effort must be made to keep costs down.

"One must never lose sight of the fact that we produce in one economy and sell in others, where the buyers have no interest whatsoever in the cost of producing goods but only in the delivered prices. British Columbia is essentially an exporting province and we run a grave risk of pricing ourselves out of our major markets. Should this happen the results are obvious, namely, economic disaster to British Columbia's most important industry and widespread unemployment."

If it is obvious that no Canadian Government can maintain our vital timber markets in foreign countries by any possible Canadian fiscal policy, some British Columbians will say that a rich company like MacMillan and Bloedel can well afford to pay higher costs out of its profits.

This no doubt could be done at the cost of the shareholders and the cost of reducing the company's continual investment of its own money in expanding its operations and hence expanding its employment.

But only a few companies are in this position. Every timber company, except the giants, is being squeezed today between rising costs, falling prices and declining foreign markets. If this process continues, as Mr. Hoffmeister says, we shall face an economic disaster in British Columbia and wholesale unemployment—not through Canadian policy but through uncontrollable foreign factors.

Leslie in Wonderland

AT THE LAST SAANICH MUNICIPAL elections voters were asked, among other questions, if they wished to continue investigation of a joint city hall with Victoria. Of those who voted, 2,154 said they did, 919 said they did not.

Now, says Councillor Leslie Passmore—who accepted the verdict when it was rendered in December, but who appears to have reversed himself—a majority do not want to continue those investigations. He reaches this unusual conclusion by stating more people voted affirmatively on other questions than did on the joint hall submission.

Carry this argument to its ultimate and ludicrous conclusion: Mr. Passmore contested a seat on the council. The combined total vote of those not successful was greater than Mr. Passmore's vote. Was Mr. Passmore actually elected—on the basis of his own theory?

So much for the Alice-in-Wonderland argument advanced by Councillor Passmore in an effort to refute the fact that those people in Saanich who voted on the question were better than two-to-one in favor of continued investigation.

Perhaps, in the future, Councillor Passmore will present a more reasonable argument to suggest why investigation—should not proceed.

His peculiar position on the joint city hall study is not unique. It could be a reflection of that persistent mental difficulty which has afflicted so many municipal representatives when any question of amalgamation is advanced. Confronted with the proposal that they face facts, they too often suffer a blackout, relapse completely into a condition of prejudice and then proceed to fantasy in an effort to explain irrational behaviour.

Surely the people of Saanich—those interested enough in their own affairs to mark ballots—are entitled to something better than this. The time is long past when the promotion of ignorance is an assurance of bliss.

So Wrong About It

AN AMERICAN BROADCASTING Corporation correspondent has reported a great scoop from London. He says that during the Suez crisis Canada warned Britain that unless the invasion of Egypt was called off immediately, this country would withdraw from the Commonwealth. With this great effort the American correspondent has exposed nothing but his ignorance of Canada.

It is a matter of record that Canada warned Britain of the gravity of its action in Egypt, and that, as Mr. Pearson has said on several occasions, there was great risk that some members of the Commonwealth—had India particularly in mind—would withdraw. But Canada's message could have gone no farther than this.

No Punch?

WHEN A STICK OF DYNAMITE was exploded close to the hall where Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong and his band were presenting a concert, the veteran entertainer scarcely missed a beat.

Like the trouper he is, the Negro artist remarked, "That's all right, folks. It's just the phone" and the incident—another case in which color consciousness went off with a bang in Tennessee—was neatly glossed over.

The occasion may give rise to many questions and to much argument on the southern states' attitude to the Negro and to desegregation. But before we turn to that, let's consider the more obvious question: With "Satchmo" and his band playing, how did anyone notice the explosion of a single stick of dynamite?

The Broken Language

IT IS easy enough to make a speech on some concrete subject; very difficult to make it on an abstract subject. Any man of normal, or even subnormal intelligence can write a heavy article on the crisis of inflation, for example, and everyone (except Premier Bennett) will understand it. But if you are asked to write a light whimsy, or a one-line joke, you will find it heavy work.

For this reason I am continually amazed by the speeches of the Governor General, Mr. Vincent Massey.

By his office he is barred from discussing any subject which might be remotely associated with practical politics. He cannot touch any of those controversial themes that make headlines without effort.

Yet he continues somehow to make headlines with material which most politicians could not possibly handle or would ruin with heavy hands. That is because the Governor General's office is presently filled—an unusual circumstance—by a man of talent and a man who understands language.

A few days ago Mr. Massey came to the defence of the language and attacked its slanderers. This thin and tenuous theme, in the hands of most Canadian politicians, would have proved too dull for the newspapers and would not have been reported.

Mr. Massey handled it with such verve and imagination that the newspapers had to find substantial space for him—not because he was the Queen's representative but because he had said something of interest in a series of sparkling phrases. Forbidden to touch the day's news, he made his own.

THE contrast between the language of the non-political Governor General and the practising politicians is sometimes depressing.

After reading Mr. Massey's latest speech I happened to pick up the Hansard of the Canadian Parliament and noted an illuminating address, in the true Christian spirit, by the Reverend E. G. Hansell, of Alberta, who claims to have conferred the inestimable benefit of Social Credit upon British Columbia. The following exchange then occurred:

Mr. Hansell: "I would rather look under the bed and find there is no Communist there" than refuse to look under the bed, close my eyes to what might be there and then find there is a Communist there."

Mr. Fulton (Kamloops): "What would the hon. gentleman do if he found the usual thing under the bed?"

Mr. Hansell: "I will tell the hon. member for Kamloops what I would do if I found the usual thing there. I would simply pour it on him."

Mr. Fulton: "That would not be much different from the usual line you produce."

THE tolerant Canadian voter will not grudge his parliamentarians, even reverend gentlemen, these moments of playful relaxation in Parliament, but however innocent the words above may be, you could hardly call them elegant. They do not ornament the language. They fall short of pure poetry. They are the work of linguistic plumbers (competent but not inspiring) while Mr. Massey's speeches and writings are always the work of an artist.

Sometimes I am inclined to regret that Mr. Massey's venture into politics, as a member of Mr. Mackenzie King's Government, years ago, was so brief. We could use in Parliament a few men who appreciated the language, but no doubt he has served the nation even better in other spheres of work.

At any rate, he has hit, in his recent speech, on a subject of real importance.

It is not necessary, of course, for parliamentarians or ordinary men to be eloquent, pretentious or precious in their diction. It is necessary for them, in a tightly-knit and complex society like ours, to be understandable.

The most essential task of democracy is to communicate ideas between men and yet, for all our present machinery of communication, our communications are breaking down. They are breaking down under the weight of the machinery.

Take television, for example. You would think that in the art of democratic politics television offered the perfect medium for the statesman who is thus enabled to enter your living room and speak personally to you. But when the newspaper reporters interview a Canadian statesman before the TV cameras his whole purpose apparently is to avoid any true communication and, for this purpose, he hides beneath an avalanche of words, words being always the surest disguise of thought.

THE statesman has a highly practical reason for being vague—he does not wish to offend anybody if he can help it. There is no reason for the private citizen to be vague (except in the genial and necessary deceptions of the household) but more and more, as Mr. Massey says, we are all resorting to a kind of distended, over-stuffed gibberish, a parade of clichés and the mutilation of good Anglo-Saxon words.

These are supposed to express our advancing education. They don't usually express thought and they seldom communicate anything of importance. Hence when Mr. Massey says a very simple thing, in the simplest possible fashion, it is news in a nation drunk with sound and blacked out by vivid pictures.

How About Enforcement?

There has recently been some controversy concerning the advisability of passing a by-law to prohibit more than a certain number of cats to any one dwelling and to enforce owners of dogs to secure same on leash.

Now, why pass any more of these by-laws when we either cannot, or will not, enforce those already in existence.

During the recent cold spell we had a rather heavy fall of snow.

All store owners in the 700 block of Yates Street cleared their walks and made same safe for pedestrians—that is all with one exception where the snow was allowed to remain on the sidewalk for the complete duration of the cold spell and eventually being compacted into an icy surface which was a danger to life and limb.

The management of this store had the matter brought to their attention at least twice and had it brought to their attention that some elderly person might be seriously injured. They did absolutely nothing about the matter.

Now this one instance, in an otherwise clean block, must have stood out like a sore thumb and those in authority must have passed back and forth over this dangerous section, so why was nothing done about it?

The suburban sidewalks were a disgrace, some properties cleared and the next ones not, until the whole mess looked like a checker-board.

The foregoing are covered by city by-laws and these are not enforced, so why go to the trouble of passing any new ones?

PIETON.

Mr. Tisdalle's Problem

It would be amusing if it was not so pathetic to read in your paper where Mr. J. D. Tisdalle, the Sacred MLA for Saanich in an address in the Legislature last Thursday, Feb. 14, said:

"I don't understand why we are not more emphatic about giving the Mica Creek development on the Columbia River to the Power Commission. I believe the Power Commission should look into every field of hydro-power development and see if they cannot save the people of this province a few dollars and give them the power they need so badly."

It would seem that Mr. Tisdalle has not read his Social Credit National Manifesto. I refer to the section under the caption: "Public Utilities and Monopolies." I quote: "The Social Credit believes: (1) The Government should be prepared to establish a Public Utility only where individual enterprise has failed to provide, or from circumstances cannot provide, adequate services at reasonable cost, the utility or service to remain a Government enterprise only until the changed situation warrants private development."

This simply means this: If private monopolies are running along smoothly, exploiting the people and the resources of this country all so well and good, but should they run into a snag, then it is up to us, the people, to get them out of their mess, so that they can get back to the business of exploiting us, even if this monopoly happens to be a foreign one, as most of them are in this country.

Has Mr. Tisdalle so soon forgotten that he backed his Premier in the Kaiser Dam deal where the Soviets proposed to permit the export of our power resources to the United States, whereby no power would have been developed in B.C., but the dam on Arrow Lake would have impounded water for the use of U.S. generators down stream?

That is why, Mr. Tisdalle we have the ludicrous situation in this province of a large private corporation being backed to the limit by your party and this corporation having only about 1/5 of its shareholders living in B.C. While we in the CCF back the B.C. Power Commission because it belongs to the 1,300,000 men, women, and children of this province. Which simply means this: The B.C. Power Commission is our company and therefore all the people are shareholders in it by the right of their citizenship. ELVAN WALTERS.

Blowing a Fuse

According to the city wiring inspector 80 per cent of local dwellings are not properly equipped to cope with the increased use of electricity in day-to-day living.

Who is to blame for this situation? I bought an older home and had it wired for a stove.

Needing wall outlets for electric heaters I had four put in—each on its own circuit so there would be no danger of overloading. As each was installed I marked a chart showing which 15 amp fuse controlled that particular circuit. In the kitchen I particularly insisted that an outlet for an iron and one for toaster, etc., should be separate and not connected to any existing circuits. I willingly paid the high prices I was charged for the extra long lengths of cable and installation of same. I had an oil furnace installed and an outlet for a washing machine.

All this work was done by electric contractors advertising in the yellow pages of the telephone book. All work was inspected by someone who said he was a "wiring inspector," upon completion of each project. Recently while the furnace was out of use for a short time I plugged in a heater while using the toaster in another room. The radio on the toaster circuit stopped, and the refrigerator on a separate circuit also went off. Thinking it due to a power failure I phoned the B.C. Electric to find how long the power would be off only to find out there was no failure in the area. So with my chart I went to the fuse box.

Imagine my surprise to find only one fuse blown—a 15 amp one! Someone had connected all three outlets to one circuit. Then I discovered that the other fuses had been replaced with 25 amp ones. My chart was absolutely useless. The furnace had been taken from its circuit-breaker and put onto one of the wall plug circuits which means that it will be overloaded should I wish to use a heater from it.

I have taken every precaution to see that my home is more than adequately wired but I am at the mercy of the electrical contractors. In my opinion National Electrical Week should be devoted to seeing that electricians know and understand what they are doing, and that the "wiring inspectors" check more thoroughly to find that previous work which passed inspection when it was done has not been tampered with.

THOROUGHLY FED-UP!

FROM KOUSTENAY, SIBERIA

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Wild Frontier

OVER the flat, featureless, illimitable, snow-clad plain of this strange land of western Siberia, a young pilot was flying about six years ago towards the town, which was then a lonely railroad town of about 30,000 people. Some seventy kilometers from here, the pilot's compass failed him utterly and in a way that indicated a strong magnetic disturbance. That was how the vast twin bodies of magnetic iron ore of Sarbi and Sokolovsky were first discovered. And that was the beginning of one of the most astonishing enterprises this reporter has ever seen.

Since then the immense government-directed plough-up of the virgin plain has transformed little Koustenay into a roaring frontier city of more than 80,000 people. But the transformation of Koustenay seemed to me a mere nothing, when compared with the transformation brought by the discovery of those two ore bodies.

I learned the story in half a day's talk with Nikolai Fadyevich Sandrigailo, one of the three or four top men in Soviet iron mining and now the director of the Sokolovsky mines.

As he told the story, the Soviet Geological Survey moved swiftly to map the ore bodies the young pilot had discovered. The ore deposit was estimated at above one billion tons of magnetic ore with forty-eight per cent of iron content. The Sokolovsky deposit was found to be almost equally large.

Ordered Exploitation

The report was then transmitted to the Ministry of Black Industry, which controls all iron and steel production in the Soviet Union. The Ministry decided that the discovery should be exploited, and ordered a project drawn up by its hive of experts at "Lengypruda"—the Leningrad Institute of ore projects.

The project officer at Lengypruda in turn called for help from fourteen other project planning agencies, ranging from the Leningrad City Planning Institute to the Leningrad Industrial Projects Institute.

The result was a massive combined plan for two enormous open cast iron mines at the Sarbi and Sokolovsky deposits; an ore enriching plant using a magnetic separation process situated halfway between the mines; a small city and a lesser town to house the miners and enriching plant workers; two new railroad lines to carry the ore to the outer world; a local narrow gauge rail system large enough to require 120 electric locomotives; plus power stations, shops, water reservoir, recreation facilities and everything else needed for a new mining development almost comparable in scale, cost, difficulty and remoteness to the famous Labrador mining project originally sponsored by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey.

Sandrigailo is a big, calm, solidly self-possessed man, who is not much given to humor about his mines. But even he smiled a bit ruefully, when he recalled how the Ministry uprooted him from his previous job as boss of all the iron mines in the Urals.

Without warning, he was confronted with the thirty-five stout volumes in which Lengypruda and its assisting project institutes had set forth the completed Sokolovsky project in full detail.

"This," said the Ministry, "is your new job." That was in 1954. The seemingly ponderous machinery of the Soviet state must have moved rather swiftly to meet Sandrigailo's needs for everything from a mobile power station to flat cars to an initial cadre of skilled workers.

On the Way

At any rate, half his new city is built now. Sixty-five hundred people (out of a planned labor force of 12,000) are already at work. The ore enriching plant is on the way up. And at the Sokolovsky deposit, the gigantic Soviet-built excavating machines have already dug a hole in the ground that is two kilometers long, more than a kilometer across, and about forty meters deep.

"By the beginning of 1961," said Sandrigailo with visible assurance, "our mines will be in full operation and each year we shall be shipping out twelve million tons of enriched ore with fifty-nine per cent of iron content. Not long ago, big coal deposits were found about one hundred kilometers from here. When they are producing too, it will be time to think about marrying our coal and our ore to make iron and steel right here."

It is tempting to try to record more of the pictures and impressions left by this day with Sandrigailo and his staff—pictures such as the dark clad workmen still swarming in the freezing dusk to complete assembly of a fourteen cubic meter excavator as big as six houses; and impressions such as the sharp yet dreary feeling of a company town's atmosphere that one got at the movie offered by the "Palace of Culture."

But one impression left by this great enterprise springing up in a wilderness really overwhelmed all the others. It was an impression of the great and ruthless power this strange Soviet economy is able to mobilize.

The Acadians

I SHALL NEVER be a really fancy housewife because half the time my mind is wandering miles away.

Just lately it's been playing around with the expulsion of the Acadians. Because I'm sure one could make a lovely children's book or film about this incident in our Canadian history.

I guess one would have to skip the background stuff about how the French settled in Acadia at the start of the 17th century, and how the ownership of Acadia shuttled back and forth between England and France for about 100 years.

I guess one could simply say that though, in 1713, the Treaty of Utrecht gave Acadia to England, it remained largely French in character.

Ruth

My imaginary book or film would start around the middle of the 18th century when the Acadians were told that they must give an unconditional oath of allegiance to King George II of England.

I'd put it chiefly in terms of a single family, and describe how it felt to the daughter who was a tall shy child of about 13.

I'd have her at the supper table listening to her father shout that an oath of allegiance was impossible because that way they might have to fight against their own flesh and blood since France and England were at war with one another.

I'd have the little boys of the family getting excited, too, and spilling their milk and saying, in effect, "Atta-boy, Pop. Let's show 'em."

I'd have the mother trying to keep things quiet and smooth her menfolk down.

I'd have the afternoon in 1755 when the Acadians had to go to the church at Grand Pre where the British had their headquarters.

I'd have Colonel Winslow delivering the King's orders with the help of interpreters. Can't you see the faces of my fictitious family? See, that's the mother hearing that the Acadians must be deported. Look, she's realizing what it means. Her only comfort is that they are to be allowed to take such money and small personal belongings as they can carry to the waiting ships.

Look now at the little boy, Pierre. He doesn't understand it all, but he does understand that the farm stock and grain must be sold. (His father will tell him later that it's to pay for the cost of the deportation.) That for him means the baby calf. The little brown one that he's always called his own.

And what of the girl, the heroine? Will she be parted from the boy who lives on the neighboring farm? Will they be sent to different places? To adult eyes, he seems a very normal youth, and just a trifle dull. But to her, in the dawning romanticism of youth, he's all that's wonderful!

Now let's follow them to the waiting ship. What are they taking with them? The spinning wheel? The home-made, much-used cradle? Oh, look, Pierre is hugging the big black cooking pot, and little Jeanne has her mother's bright hooked rug.

Is the fiddler of the district on their ship? Or does his music come to them across the water before the ships set sail?

Is our heroine a bit impatient with young Andre who doesn't feel the tragedy of the leaving but is simply filled with a sense of high adventure and is asking too many questions?

Can't you see her standing by the rail and watching the familiar shoreline fade away?

She's just a gawky girl with freckles and a nose that's a bit too big for beauty.

But even writing this, I've grown to like her. I know exactly how she's feeling at this moment.

Will no one write me a vivid human story about this child who lived in our country 200 years ago?

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Sore Feet

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Many persons are cursed from birth with feet which were not well made. Some of them have poor arches—they have flat feet or what doctors call pronated feet. With these, the person tends to walk with too much of his weight thrown onto the inner side of the foot. He makes matters worse by walking with his feet turned out. He would do much better if he would walk with his toes pointed straight ahead. We all know the old waiter hobbling along with his feet turned outward and the weight of his body banging down with each step onto a bone in the arch, which in the case of a normal foot stays up off the floor.

Some people barely missed having club feet, and some, born with club feet, had them remodeled by an orthopedist. Some women have so short a tendon running down from the calf muscles to the heel that they are uncomfortable when wearing low-heeled shoes.

Many women, of course, have malformed and painful feet because they have always worn shoes that were too short and too pointed. Such shoes caused the big toe to point outward toward the other toes, and the result of this was the formation of what is called a "bunion"—a knob that sticks out at the base of the big toe and takes all the pressure of the shoe. In such cases a good surgeon can straighten out the foot again so it can be comfortable.

Some persons, perhaps because of tendency to arthritis and a contraction of tendons, get what are called hammer-toes, in which the toes, instead of lying flat on the floor, stand like an inverted V. Naturally, such toes do not fit comfortably into any shoes and they have to be operated on by an orthopedist. Interestingly, the word orthopedist comes from roots meaning a straight foot.

Many of the distresses that people have in their feet can, of course, be helped by a chiropodist who can remove corns and can show the person how to take care of his feet so as to avoid an ingrown toe-nail. Some ingrown toe-nails have to be operated on; others can be made to grow properly again.

As one would expect, many persons with bad feet can be greatly helped by wearing properly-fitted shoes. Some are helped by wearing arch supports, and some are helped by wearing what is called a transverse bar, a bit of leather fastened to the bottom of the shoe where the ball of the foot rests. Others who tend to rotate the feet can be helped by having a little wedge put on one side or other of the heel. This will cause the feet to come down on the sidewalk flatly, instead of obliquely.

All those persons who suffer much from poorly-formed feet should ask their doctor or the local medical society to refer them to a good orthopedist. Sometimes the re-modeling of a foot or the raising of one foot with a pad in the shoe will take strain off the back, and thereby relieve a backache.

MODERN LOVE OF OPERATIONS

The other day at a convention I sat at dinner with a fine idealistic surgeon who, years ago, was a student of mine at the Mayo Clinic. He was saying that each month he spends much time trying to talk people out of having some abdominal operation which they think would cure their nervousness, or moodiness, or feeling of fatigue, or vague abdominal misery, and would put new pep into them.

A woman whose main trouble is that she is a worrisome fuss-budget will demand that her appendix or her uterus or her gallbladder be removed, and my old student will say, "But there is no evidence that you have disease in your abdomen, and if you had, it could not possibly produce the symptoms that are bothering you."

Then, as my friend, Dr. Ben Fox said, often the patient goes elsewhere and gets the operation, and then when, as sometimes happens, he or she feels better for a couple of months, it is very embarrassing for the doctor who said there was no sense in operating. As I always say to people, if you find a surgeon who refuses to perform the operation you want, respect him and admire him and keep him as your doctor for the rest of your days. You can be sure that he is honest and very idealistic; usually he also is very wise.

RUPTURES IN CHILDREN

Some persons ask me, how early should a rupture in the groin of a child be repaired. The other day I heard a lecture by an able man who said that it should be repaired before the age of three years. It is always possible that the bowel might get caught in the ring of the rupture, and then the child would lose his life unless a surgeon could come quickly and operate.

SANCTIONS
History and Meaning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Sanctions" is an odd word.

In ordinary use, sanction of something means that it's approved.

But in legal terms, carried over into diplomatic talk, "sanctions" denotes restriction, an intervention that tends to bring pressure upon a person or government.

And that's what United Nations diplomats are talking about in discussing whether to vote sanctions against Israel.

The term came into active diplomatic use in the 1930s in the League of Nations, a predecessor of the United Nations.

Article 16 of the League of Nations Covenant was the first attempt to organize a system of international sanctions to enforce peace and security. It imposed on all members the obligation to adopt coercive measures, including financial and economic boycott, against states which resorted to war in violation of the covenant.

JAPAN'S CASE SIGNIFICANT

Oct. 2, 1932, was a significant date in the decline of the old league because it failed then to apply sanctions against Japan in the case of Manchuria. On that date the report of a League of Nations commission bluntly accused Japan of aggression. There was much talk in Geneva, but no clear-cut action. Japan did not withdraw, and the Far East section of the Second World War was in the making.

Italy's Mussolini, observing this impotence of the league, invaded Ethiopia Oct. 2, 1935, without a declaration of war. In an attempt to retrieve its authority, the league this time declared economic sanctions against Italy on Nov. 18, but the measure proved ineffective. Mussolini continued his aggression, and on May 5, 1936, formally annexed Ethiopia.

Fifty nations pledged collective sanctions against Italy and adopted an arms embargo against her. A financial embargo was added by 48 nations, a boycott of imports from Italy by 47, and a boycott of certain exports to Italy by 47. The United States, not a member of the league, acted independently and applied an embargo against both Italy and Ethiopia.

OIL NOT STOPPED

The league sanctions did not include the export of oil to Italy, a measure which might have been effective. In June, 1936, sanctions were formally abandoned.

It was apparent that sanctions were not working when Hitler re-occupied the demilitarized Rhineland on March 7, 1936. France, reluctant to apply sanctions against Italy, endeavored to apply them to Germany. The effort got nowhere.

The question of sanctions was not even discussed in the old league when Germany annexed Austria in 1938, and seized the remnant of Czechoslovakia and invaded Poland in 1939.

A form of political sanction was voted against Russia in 1939 when she was expelled from the league for invading Finland.

200 'Elite' Control Canada Economist Says

TORONTO (CP)—Professor C. A. Ashley, a University of Toronto political economist, says "enormous" economic power rests in the hands of fewer than 200 Canadians, the vast majority of whom are bank directors.

Professor Ashley, who is professor of commerce, comments in the current issue of the Canadian Journal of Economics and Political Science on a similar article written last year by Professor John Porter of Ottawa's Carleton College.

Professor Porter estimated that 922 men, the directors of 170 dominant corporations, made up Canada's "economic elite."

PGE TO CONSOLIDATE OIL BOOM IN PEACE RIVER, SAYS SOCRED

Extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into the Peace River country will have the effect of consolidating the oil industry in that area, Harold Roche (S.C. North Peace River) told the legislature Wednesday.

"Because of the government's decision to extend the railway up there, oil companies foresee much greater possibilities for the future of their industry," Mr. Roche said.

"Today we are assured that the oil companies are in there to stay."

Rainmaking Claims Doused By B.C. Research Council

Rainmakers are not living up to their claims to produce extra rainfall in the opinion of the B.C. Research Council.

The council's report on an investigation of four "cloud seeding" projects in British Columbia was tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

The investigation was held at the request of the provincial government after several M.L.A.s at the 1956 session protested that the government should not allow interference with provincial weather conditions without more knowledge of artificial rain precipitation.

"Reports prepared by the contractors on their cloud seeding operations in B.C. claimed appreciable increases in rainfall in all target areas during the seeding periods," reported the council.

"The present report does not support that view."

NO ROOF

"A check of procedures used in estimating the increase in rainfall has shown that the calculations used in the reports are faulty and that no change in rainfall as a result of seeding has been proved in any area."

Four projects were investigated by the council.

One was sponsored by B.C. Electric at watersheds of Stave and Coquitlam lakes in 1952-53, and by Powell River Co. at the watershed of Powell and Lois lakes in 1953-57.

ISLAND TEST

A third was sponsored by the B.C. Power Commission for hydro purposes at the Campbell River watershed 1953-56 and the fourth by four lumber companies to reduce forest fire hazards on Vancouver Island in 1956.

Study of rainmaking projects in other parts of the world has been undertaken by the council, and it was admitted that they show there is some justification for believing that under certain conditions rainfall may be increased by seeding.

But it was added: "In no case on public record has it been proved beyond reasonable doubt that seeding did result in additional rain."

Marital, Personality Problems Blamed In Half Business Upsets, Says Counsellor

Personalities enter into business more than most business men realize, a director of counselling and placement told Victoria chapter, National Office Management Association Tuesday night.

Dr. J. Beattie MacLean, Victoria College, estimated that more than 50 per cent of business upsets are caused by marital, personality and family problems, and only eight per cent by financial problems.

Co-operation of everyone in an organization is like the oil which keeps working parts of a machine moving, he said. For the best performance, employers should emphasize sympathy, understanding, humor, consistency and fair play.

They also should lend an ear to employee demands of credit for work, interesting work, fair pay and salary increases, understanding, promotion on merit and security, Dr. MacLean said.

From the stage play of the same name which ran 14 months at the Strand Theatre in London, playing to packed audiences, comes this film, directed by Philip Leacock, who gave us "The Kidnappers" and many other fine pictures. It is a film which brings great entertainment for the whole family because it has to do with domestic affairs as well as the activities of the three boys at school. They have problems too. There's the Headmaster, The Secret Society, "Operation Birdie" and "Who Is Liarist". All very mysterious, amusing and well done, by an excellent cast.

Rest Homes Refusing Welfare Cases

Want Higher Rates From City, Province

Members of the B.C. Rest Home Association here have refused to take in any more elderly persons as city welfare cases until authorities pay more for the service.

President of the association, Mrs. M. E. Brisbin, says there are beds available for welfare cases in licensed city boarding homes. But not at present rates.

She said her group objects to a recent city appeal for private homes which would take in such cases for city payment of $65 a month.

"We have refused to take in any more cases at $65 a month," Mrs. Brisbin stated.

She said the Rest Home Association has a brief before the provincial government, asking increased rates. Payment for welfare cases has been unchanged since 1952, she said.

"I don't think it is fair to put these people in private homes where they may not get 24-hour service," added Mrs. Brisbin.

Wenner-Gren Viewed as 'Ruin' Of Socred Party

The B.C. government's association with Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren will be the "ruination" of the Social Credit party in this province, Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) predicted in his legislative Wednesday.

In the bitterest attack of the current session, Mr. Harding charged the government with giving Wenner-Gren interests an industrial empire in north-central B.C. in exchange for "a bag of peanuts."

He claimed that the two-year reserve placed on 40,000 square miles of territory for the Swedish firm "is like selling a store when you don't even know what you have on the shelves."

Mr. Harding hurled questions and charges across the floor of the House with a speed that dazzled some of the government members.

BOUND HAND AND FOOT

He declared the memorandum of intent signed by B.C. and the Wenner-Gren representatives had the province bound "almost hand and foot."

He compared the Wenner-Gren project to the Kaiser Dam proposal which the federal government three years ago stopped and said: "This Wenner-Gren deal is just as bad as the Kaiser plan was."

Recalling how the Kaiser Aluminum Co. of the United States offered to build a water storage dam on the Columbia River at Castlegar, the CCF member said:

"Kaiser took everything off you but your shirts. Wenner-Gren will take your shirts, too."

He said Kaiser had requested authority to construct the dam and in return give the B.C. government 20 per cent of the downstream benefits that would accrue across the border as a result.

Mr. Harding then quoted from a speech made by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston in 1956 in which he said: "We expect to have a storage dam built free of cost to B.C."

"Is that still your view?" he asked.

Mr. Williston did not reply, but Attorney-General Bonner told him: "You know the rules of this House."

JOB FOR B.C.

Reverting to the Wenner-Gren project, Mr. Harding urged that the government itself should undertake to make $5,000,000 worth of surveys of the area, instead of "making a deal" with the Swedish concern.

"There was no deal and you know it," retorted Mr. Williston.

BONNER ESTIMATE

Seen for B.C.

Reluctance by the Opposition to ask outright discontinuance of negotiations with Wenner-Gren interests was cited by Attorney-General Robert Bonner in the legislature Wednesday as support of government action in the northern B.C. development.

He reiterated previous assurance the government is not contemplating any "give-away" of provincial resources.

He said he could envision a population in the province of 3,000,000 people in the next 20 years.

"We shall witness the turning of a bright new page in the history of the province."

Billy Sunday's Widow Dies at 88

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Helen (Ma) Sunday, 88, widow of evangelist Billy Sunday, died here Wednesday night.

Mrs. Sunday married the famous evangelist Sept. 18, 1888. Her husband died in 1936.

"Well, you are giving them control of this northern territory," pursued Mr. Harding.

"No, we have not given them control," the minister rapped back.

Mr. Harding referred to Axel Wenner-Gren as "a very doubtful character" who, while Hitler was bombing Britain, during the war, tried to "get the most he could out of both sides."

"You are not dealing with some small outfit when you play around with these tycoons," he added. "Personally I don't think you know too much about their plans. We ourselves do not know what we have in the north."

DEAL FELL THROUGH

Mr. Harding then told of a former Wenner-Gren project to develop Southern Rhodesia. This, he said, was now a "dead issue."

"They were going to build a monorail there, too," he said. "They must have a one-track mind," quipped Gordon Dowling (CCF-Burnaby) amid laughter from all sides of the House.

Mr. Harding said the people of B.C. have "had their eyes opened" and would continue to rise in indignation when the government made deals of this kind.

"Is this the free enterprise system Social Credit so proudly proclaims?" he asked. "This government is playing into the hands of international finance and I believe the day will come when it will be sorry it ever heard the name Wenner-Gren."

JUNIOR U.S. SHUTTLE TO INVAD CITY COURTS

Young America will invade the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club shuttle courts Saturday.

Under the direction of coach Vern Burton, 70 junior badminton players are due to arrive from Port Angeles at 10 a.m. and will meet juniors from the host club in an all-day competition.

The event will be the first half of a home-and-home series for the new Victoria-Port Angeles Junior Challenge Trophy, donated by VLTBC president Jim Wells.

Victoria juniors will pay a return visit to Port Angeles later this season.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY Denny Boyd

What does it take to be "big-league" in the hockey world? High-priced hockey players? A top-name coach? A big and expensive arena? Yes, it takes these things but it takes something else, in addition.

Big league fans.

And in this respect, Chicago still looks like a bush-league hockey town.

Maybe you saw a good game turned into a farce last Saturday in the weekly televised game between the Black Hawks and Boston Bruins.

They scored 11 goals in that game and after every goal and following most penalty calls, Chicago fans heaved everything they could reach onto the ice surface.

The game had to be held up on each occasion and while the players leaned on their sticks and looked at the ceiling, a fat little man came out on the ice with a broom and a shovel and patiently swept up the garbage.

He looked like one of those guys in a circus parade who runs behind the elephants with a broom and a shovel.

That's what we saw on TV and it looked pure bush.

But Bud Hocking was there recently and he can give further evidence.

Bud, on his annual business trip to the Windy City, sat in on a game between the Hawks and Toronto.

First of all, according to Bud, the public address system was hard to hear and the announcer seldom gave the fans any information on the scoring.

Secondly, the fans there aren't content with throwing little things like coffee cups and programs. The kids there take in newspapers with which they fashion huge paper darts. At the drop of a puck, they let fly with these darts and the air is often filled with them.

Those are the "fun-loving" kids, to be differentiated from the punks.

Bud had a brush with the latter element.

There were 10 of them in a row behind Bud and they persisted in pelting Bud and his aisle-full of neighbors with peanuts.

Hocking got up to admonish the punks but was cautioned by a veteran of Hawk home games. "Don't say anything to them or they'll follow you after the game and make it rough for you."

Finally, however, an usher was found, he went searching for reinforcements and a small platoon of ushers pursued the punks to leave.

It was a good hockey game, Bud said, but those fans took most of the joy out of it.

NEWS PICKINGS—Peewee Bradshaw, one-time butterfly of the Victoria Shamrocks, is down to 163 pounds after twice-a-week workouts at the Y and feels he is in the best shape of his career. The optimism is dented by Bert Bertola, who also is taking Y workouts to get ready for the oncoming lacrosse season. Norm Baker wants to have it known that he is not the coach of the Dickinson & Dunn basketball team, Norm still insists, is the next B.C. champ. "My brother Ralph is the coach," says Norm. "He's the boss and I'm just another player." Winnipeg Warrior coach Alf Pike recently put his players through time trials at a practice and the fastest guy on the rookie-studded club was none other than Billy Mosienko, the little 36-year-old wizard.

UPSET VERNON AGAIN

Vs Find Old Touch; Hustle to 2-0 Lead

By The Canadian Press

Penticton Vs, one-time dominant force in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, are showing signs of a playoff power that was noticeably lacking during the regular season.

HOW DID BURL MISS THOSE TWO?

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Ever hear of a basketball player hitting 50 of 52 tries for field goals?

Burl Dunlap, Athens College student playing for the Gaucha all-stars against the naval reserve team, did it Tuesday night. The game went to Gaucha, 159-60, as Dunlap also dropped in two free throws for 102 points.

Dunlap, six-foot-four, sat out the first 10 minutes of the game, but came under the goal for most of the remainder of the contest and monotonously dropped in baskets as fast as his teammates could get the ball to him.

Eight Games Set In Minor Soccer

Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association teams are scheduled for a full slate of eight games this weekend.

Weekend schedule follows:

SATURDAY

10:15—Saatchi Thistles (VII) vs. Optimists (VI), Lansdowne Park; ANAF Vets (VII) vs. Central Park (VI), Hollywood Park; Eagles (V) vs. Lansdowne Trojans (V), Hampton Park.

SUNDAY

2:00—Tillicums (I) vs. McNutt's Grocery (I), Carnarvon Park; Fuller's Clippers (III) vs. Optimists (II), Topaz Avenue Park; Canadian Scottish (II) vs. Eagles (III), Windsor Park.

NO VERDICT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A superior court jury considering fight fixing charges against boxer Art Aragon failed again Wednesday to reach a verdict.

DOUBLE TROUBLE FOR MILES

Esquimalt goalie Miles Webster managed to clear on this occasion, but Brian Gray (left) and Barry Harvey still spoiled his afternoon at Central Park Wednesday. Gray beat Webster in first half and Harvey added second-half goal as Vic High blanked Esquimalt, 2-0, to win inter-high school junior soccer final. Vics won opener of best-of-three series and teams tied in second game, 0-0. — (Times photo by Bill Halkett)

Vic High City Champs; Ask Province Showdown

Victoria High School's junior soccer team played a standout game from whistle to whistle at Central Park Wednesday to down Esquimalt, 2-0, in the third game of the best-of-three league finals.

Victory game Keith Taylor's squad the Big Horn Trophy, emblematic of junior soccer supremacy among Victoria area high schools.

The Vics once more displayed the form that kept them undefeated in league play, and now Taylor is eyeing mainland competition for a possible provincial championship match.

"The seniors play a B.C. final with Vancouver Tech," he said, "so I'd like to investigate the possibilities of a similar series for juniors."

"We've proved that we can handle any local teams," he stated, "and I feel that such a competition would be very worthwhile."

In Wednesday's clash, Taylor's squad passed their way to victory as Esquimalt could not get a sustained attack started.

OFFENSE STOPPED

In fact, the Dockers had only one scoring attempt in the first half. Vic High fared better, however, as Brian Gray chalked up one goal for the winners.

While Esquimalt showed considerable improvement in the second frame, they still could not dent goalie Barry Sadler's armor as he racked up his second shutout of the series.

Barry Harvey, meanwhile, took advantage of the baffled Esquimalt offence to drive the ball between the posts for Vic High's second marker of the game, and seventh of the series.

The Vics routed Esquimalt 5-2 in the opener, but were held to a scoreless draw in the second clash.

Penticton thumped Vernon 7-4 Wednesday night, carried in front on the hustle of a first-period 5-1 lead that was stretched to 7-1 by the end of the second.

Paired off against Vernon Canadians — who topped the OSHL this year after winning the Allan Cup in 1955-56 — The Vics were expected to provide little opposition. Instead, with two games played in their best-of-seven finals, the league dorms have a 2-0 lead in games over the Canadians.

SMOKIES WIN

In their interior playoff action Wednesday, Trail Smoke Eaters eked out a 5-4 victory over Nelson Maple Leafs, their second victory in a many semi-final games of the best-of-seven series.

Almost 2,200 Penticton fans turned out for the upset as Dave Wall and Bob Chorley scored twice each for the winners. Jim Fairburn, Walt Peacock and Gerry Leonard completed the Penticton scoring.

Replying for Vernon were Art Davison, with two, Odie Lowe and Frank King.

Penticton played the entire game without a penalty, compared to the six minors handed Vernon.

At Nelson, Grant Warwick ran his point total in the young series to nine. He had two goals and three assists for Trail while linemates Gerry Penner and Dick Warwick scored a goal apiece. Rightwinger Bobby Kromm got the other one.

For Nelson, Mickey Maglio was the star. He scored twice and assisted on another goal besides turning in a good defensive performance. Wendy Keller and Don Appleton rounded out the scoring.

City Rinks Split In Alberni 'Spiel

Victoria rinks broke even in first-round games of the MacKenzie Trophy primary as play in the fifth annual Alberni-Valley-Curling Club bonspiel opened Wednesday.

It was a close squeak for each of the three Victoria quartets that started with victories in the five-day 'spiel, and each finished with a one-point margin.

Bob McIntosh got by C. Bell of Port Alberni, 7-6; Jim Tang nipped Alex Schrob of Nanaimo, 6-5, and Gar Taylor's rink tripped Nanaimo's Bud Clift, 8-7.

Dropped into the Woodward Trophy event as a result of losses in the MacKenzie competition were Ivan Shillington, a 10-6 loser to E. Davis of Port Alberni; Bill McLean, who lost, 10-6, to C. Hooper of the host club, and Ray Bewell, beaten, 9-3, by Nanaimo's B. Fuller.

NANAIMO STARTS

Play in the British Columbia women's curling championships started at Nanaimo today.

Eleven rinks, representing six zones, are competing for the right to represent the province in the Western Canada play-downs at Saskatoon March 12.

First United Teams Risk Winning Marks

Two First United basketball teams will put their undefeated records on the line Saturday night against the challenge of Alberni teams.

First United pre-midgets will meet Alberni at 7:30 and First United midgets meet an Alberni midget team at 8:30. Both games will be played at the First United gym.

Exhibition Soccer Set

An exhibition match between the Hungarian soccer team and the Naval Laboratories squad will be played at Topaz Avenue Park Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

For 58 minutes and 35 seconds Buffalo goalie Harry Lumley shut out the Reds, who were blanked by Cleveland Barons Tuesday night. Then Bruce Cline batted the puck into the unprotected end of the cage during a flurry in front of the goal.

The game was almost seven minutes old before Johnny Bower, Providence goalie, had a save. The second shot on Bower was a goal, Bob Hassard took a pass from Pete Babando off the left boards, skated in on Bower, faked a shot, then let go. The puck hit Bower's pads and dropped into the cage.

Bettio made it 2-1 on a pass from Ken Wharram at 17:01 of the final period.

Dechene Throttles Potent Americans

Brandon Wins Again; Royals Whip Stamps

Seattle's ordinarily potent scoring power was there Wednesday night in the Western Hockey League. The power, that is, not the payoff.

Bruin Sins Plague Lynn Aid Rangers

Blues Consolidate Playoff Position

By The Canadian Press

Lynn Patrick was chatting the other day about crime and how it pays better if you don't get caught.

His Boston Bruins, he figured, are not overly adept at getting away with it. They are the most penalized club in the National Hockey League.

There's one type of penalty that irks us, the general manager said. "That's a penalty which one of our players gets in the offensive or in the neutral zone. It has nothing to do with preventing an attack on our net."

"We have no automatic fines, although coach Milt Schmidt did fine one of our players for a stupid penalty in Chicago last Saturday. The penalty cost us the game."

COSTS AGAIN

The Bruins got away with nothing again Wednesday night. That, and the fact that New York Rangers are on fire with playoff hopes, is some explanation for the 5-2 trouncing Rangers handed Boston before 11,755 New York fans.

The victory pushed Rangers' fourth-place point total to 32, five up on Toronto Maple Leafs.

Bruins served five penalties in the first period and two Ranger goals came with the Beantowners short-handed.

After that the Bruins never really got rolling, although Fleming Mackell and Real Chevrefils punched in their only goals in less than five minutes of the second period. Danny Lewicki scored the game's final goal for Rangers seconds before the period ended.

HENRY STRETCHES STREAK

Dave Creighton, Andy Heberton, Dean Prentice and Camille Henry, built up the New Yorkers' big opening lead. Henry's tally lifted his current scoring streak to six goals in six games. He also helped on Creighton's goal to stretch his assists to eight over the same period.

Rangers outshot the Bruins and continued their mastery over Don Simmons. The Boston netminder stopped 25 shots in absorbing his third loss at the hands of the Blueshirts after a phenomenal start as a replacement for Terry Sawchuk.

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings meet the Canadiens at Montreal in tonight's only action.

Sam Bettio Nets Winner

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Sam Bettio's goal with three minutes to go proved the margin of victory as Buffalo Bisons defeated Providence Reds 2-1 in an American Hockey League game before 3,248 fans Wednesday night.

For 58 minutes and 35 seconds Buffalo goalie Harry Lumley shut out the Reds, who were blanked by Cleveland Barons Tuesday night. Then Bruce Cline batted the puck into the unprotected end of the cage during a flurry in front of the goal.

The game was almost seven minutes old before Johnny Bower, Providence goalie, had a save. The second shot on Bower was a goal, Bob Hassard took a pass from Pete Babando off the left boards, skated in on Bower, faked a shot, then let go. The puck hit Bower's pads and dropped into the cage.

Bettio made it 2-1 on a pass from Ken Wharram at 17:01 of the final period.

Willie Is Willing To Hurry Slowly Toward Title Bout

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Willie Pastrano, a satin-smooth swiftie inside the ring, said today he intends to "make haste slowly" in a long-range bid to challenge heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

"I'm just gonna keep fightin' for groceries and let the other guys challenge Patterson for a while," said the fourth-ranked contender after Wednesday night's unanimous 10-round decision over Johnny Holman of Chicago. "I want to reach the top but I'm in no hurry to get there."

"That's right," chimed in trainer Angelo Dundee. "When we think it's time for Patterson, we'll challenge . . . but not before."

The 22-year-old Pastrano said "things went about as I expected," as he reduced Holman to a plodding, one-eyed fighter and extended his unbeaten string to 21 straight bouts. Willie pulled up Holman's left eye in the sixth round, closed it in the seventh and played cat-and-mouse with his heavier opponent the remainder of the way.

The crowd of about 7,000 at the new Kentucky Fair and Exposition Centre saw the New Orleans "stick-and-stab" artist gain the clear-cut decision on the cards of all three ring officials. Referee Dennis Leslie scored it for Pastrano 7-3, judge Tom Nuckles had it 6-3-1, and judge Frank DeCamillas had it 7-2-1.

'Ready for Anything' Claims Champ Carmen

CLEVELAND (AP)—Carmen Basilio claims his once-injured right hand is "okay" and insists he will be "ready for anything" when he defends his world welterweight boxing title fight if he gets past Saxton Basilio looked interested.

Saxton won a disputed decision over Basilio at Chicago last March by using hit-and-run tactics. When Johnny tried to slug it out with Basilio at Syracuse in September, he was stopped in nine rounds.

Johnny de John, one of Basilio's co-managers, said he hoped to match the champ with the winner of the Ray Robinson-Gene Fullmer middleweight title fight if he gets past Saxton.

"It makes no difference to me what he does," said Basilio. "I learned plenty about Saxton in our first two fights. I think I can beat him, no matter what he does."

The game was almost seven minutes old before Johnny Bower, Providence goalie, had a save. The second shot on Bower was a goal, Bob Hassard took a pass from Pete Babando off the left boards, skated in on Bower, faked a shot, then let go. The puck hit Bower's pads and dropped into the cage.

LUKEWARM ATTITUDE

Cleveland Worries Pan-Am Officials

By DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP)—Two years have passed since the city of Cleveland was awarded the 1959 Pan-American Games.
With $4,600,000 on hand and another $500,000 on the way, the city still is months away from construction of a stadium and officials privately are expressing concern over the city's lukewarm attitude.
Most of the people in Ohio's largest city, including some of its high-ranking officials, were caught off guard when the selection committee picked Cleveland for the 14-day games which will begin Aug. 15, 1959.

Ontario Rink Upset; B.C. Out of Running

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ontario, upset Wednesday afternoon by Manitoba, came back with a victory at night to remain deadlocked with Northern Ontario for top spot in the Dominion high school curling championship.
The two rinks finished the seventh draw Wednesday night with identical records of six wins and one defeat after a gruelling three games on the third day of the four-day championship.

Ian Johnston's Kingston rink regained its winning ways by defeating Prince Edward Island 9-3. Port Arthur's Carl Konefal, whose only loss has been to Ontario, kept pace by beating New Brunswick 17-7.

One game back of the two Ontario rinks in third place was Alberta's Alf Shieman, of Calgary, who blasted away hopes Allan Kenney, of North Sydney, had of winning the classic by downing the Nova Scotia skip 14-7.

MANITOBA FADES

Defending champion Saskatchewan drew even with Manitoba at four wins and three defeats by winning the battle of the two Prairie rinks by a 9-7 score.

British Columbia was knocked out of the running when the Bob Nesbitt rink dropped an 8-7 verdict to Quebec for its fourth loss in seven starts. It was the second win for Quebec's Ed Uhlen, already out of contention.

Ontario was favored to take the title, with its two remaining games against Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, while Northern Ontario was scheduled to meet Alberta and British Columbia.

The Kingston Collegiate aggregation failed to score more than a two against Arthur Burke, of Prince Edward Island, but there was never too much doubt as to the result.

Harold Mabey, of New Brunswick, made a game of it for five ends against Northern Ontario, holding on even terms at 5-5.

Quebec came from behind to gain its one-up win over British Columbia. The youthful easterners tied the game at 7-7 with a three on the ninth and won on the 10th when skip Nesbitt was narrow on an attempted take-out of the Quebec shot rock.

Northern Ontario pulled even with Ontario by taking Quebec 10-8. Alberta stayed within hailing distance with an easy 13-3 win over British Columbia. Saskatchewan took New Brunswick 13-5 and Nova Scotia sidled Prince Edward Island 12-3.

HERE'S REAL TREASON, ERIC ROOTS FOR EAST

At least one member of Victoria Curling Club won't be pulling for British Columbia to win the Dominion curling championship at Kingston early next month.

Eric Smeaton, a member of the Victoria club since it opened, will be hoping for a victory by Don McEwen's Port Arthur quartet, which won the Northern Ontario berth in the Brier by besting a Kirkland Lake rink skipped by John Stroyand, 8-7, in the final of the Northern Ontario playoff.

The reason? Smeaton's son, Don, is throwing second rocks for the McEwen squad, which lost out in the Northern Ontario final in two previous tries.

SPRING TRAINING JOTTINGS

Campy Big 'If' In Dodgerville

By United Press
Catcher Roy Campanella was the centre of attraction today when manager Walt Alston formally opened the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers' Verano Beach, Fla., training camp.

"If Campanella's sound again, he'll solve a lot of our problems," conceded Alston, who lists the veteran catcher and navy-returnee Johnny Podres as the Dodgers' two "big ifs" of 1957. Campanella, bothered by bad hands, hit only .219 last season but has been insisting all winter that he's sound again.

Only pitchers and catchers were actually due for today's workout but Alston was pleased to learn that veteran outfielder Carl Furillo and rookie first-baseman Jim Gentile also will be present. Gentile is the powerful farmhand who led the Dodgers in hitting on their post-war series tour of Japan.

"It's pretty encouraging to have all these fellows here early instead of having to drag 'em in," commented Alston.

At Tucson, Ariz., meanwhile, general manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians revealed that pitcher Bob Lemon has agreed to terms. Lemon, a 20-game winner for the seventh time in his career last year, is believed to have settled for about $45,000. The Indians have 12 players unsigned.

The Philadelphia Phillies announcing that former infielder Gran Hamner, who is trying his arm at pitching this year, has signed. Hamner was forced to the toe plate because of an injury to his left shoulder which hobbled his play at both shortstop and second base. The Phillies are hopeful that a knuckler and good control can make him a surprise winner on the mound.

On other fronts: Outfielder Hank Bauer and third-baseman Andy Carey signed with the world champion New York Yankees, who now have 29 players under contract. Bauer hit only .241 but drove in 84 runs and walloped 26 homers last season. Carey, a .237-hitter in 1956, will have to fight to retain his job this year.
The New York Giants reported "all signed" when rookie pitcher Curtis Barclay, 15-11 at Minneapolis last season, came to terms. The Giants are the first of the three New York teams to sign up their full roster.

Bailey Not Through
EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—University of Oregon track coach Bill Bowman Tuesday discounted "as premature" any talk that four-minute miler Jim Bailey might be through as a mile competitor because of a sore foot.

Trade Grumbles Persist
KANSAS CITY (AP)—The men who try to find a way to beat the Yankees, seven American League managers and their bosses, aren't elated over the 13-player swap the New Yorkers made with Kansas City Athletics.
They don't like the idea of the Yanks coming up with another first-line pitcher—Art Ditmar. And wily Casey Stengel may have fallen heir to another if the once great Bobby Shantz comes through for him.
Even if the Athletics made a good deal for themselves, they may have assured the New Yorkers of another pennant—their eighth in nine years.
The Yanks got Ditmar, Shantz, pitcher Jack McManhan, first baseman Wayne Belardi, and another player to be named in place of infielder Cletis Boyer, who first was included in the deal.
The Athletics got pitchers Mickey McDermott, Rip Coleman and Tom Morgan, outfielder Irv Noren and infielder Milt Graff.
Each club will throw in a young player at a later date.
"The Yanks got the Athletics' best pitcher in Ditmar," said Jack Tighe, manager of Detroit Tigers. "And they didn't give up a single player who helped them win the title last year. In addition the Yanks got another one who really could help if his arm continues to get better—Shantz."
The Tigers, Tighe said, had Revelstoke Ski Club will hold an international invitation tournament at Mount Revelstoke on March 9 and 10. A. W. Lundell (SC-Revelstoke) announced in the legislature Thursday.
He added that the club is flying five of Norway's top jumpers to Revelstoke for the meet.

HE'S EX-WINERY PRESIDENT

Bennett Over-Pious
On Liquor—Gregory

Premier Bennett was advised to take "a less pious" attitude towards liquor by George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) speaking in the Legislature Wednesday.

Mr. Gregory said the premier was president of a well-known B.C. winery from 1932 until 1941, in which year he was elected to the legislature as Conservative MLA for South Okanagan.

"In view of this association I was surprised to read that the premier was reported to have said decent people don't drink."

"I never said that," interrupted Premier Bennett.

"But this afternoon you said in this House 'I am not interested in liquor.' You take a pious attitude towards liquor, although you couldn't balance your budget without the profits you get from it."

"Ridiculous," replied the premier.

"Most ridiculous," echoed Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, who was sitting behind him.

CCF Liquor Charge
Denied by Bennett

A CCF accusation that the Liquor Control Board's increased price lists were printed three months before the announcement of last November's new prices was denied by Premier Bennett Wednesday.

Waving an LCB booklet in the legislature, Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) ridiculed a statement that price advances by distillers caused a boost in prices to the public—and that prices to consumers went up only after distillery increases.

On the back of the booklet were the figures "50 M. 7/36." Mr. Harding said this meant 50,000 of the booklets with the increased prices listed were ordered last July — three months before the distillers raised their prices.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said the lists were printed in bulk, and that the prices could be "printed in" at any time.

Afterwards, the premier told reporters:

"Increased liquor prices were approved Nov. 17 by the cabinet, the list was sent to the printers Nov. 20 and was printed Nov. 21."

Rogers Pass
Route Choice
Hit By CCF

The B.C. government has changed the people's outlook in Revelstoke by its decision to build the Trans-Canada Highway via Rogers Pass, A. W. Lundell (SC, Revelstoke) told the legislature Wednesday.

"In so doing, the government has righted an error in judgment made by the federal government in 1928 when it insisted on the Big Bend, so that a branch could be built up Canoe River to connect with Jasper and Edmonton."

He added that the road to Jasper via Canoe River was never built. The federal government changed in 1930 and the new prime minister (R. B. Bennett) represented Calgary.

30 YEARS LOST

"It then became more desirable to build the Jasper connection from Lake Louise, which is much closer to Calgary."

"I submit that 30 years were lost because political considerations were given preference over engineering advice," Mr. Lundell said.

Earlier, Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan) took Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi to task for "misleading" the people of Jumbo Pass when he had already made up his mind in favor of the Rogers Pass.

"Boards of trade in my area went to endless trouble and expense making surveys in the snow when the minister had already chosen the alternative route," Mr. Harding declared.

NATURAL RESOURCES TALK

Logging Roads Blamed For Watershed Trouble

Specific methods of reducing soil erosion from logging operations were given at the B.C. Natural Resources Conference in the Empress Hotel Wednesday by Philip G. Haddock, UBC associate forestry professor.

Watershed management, he said, is primarily the control of operations on a watershed to produce maximum regular flow of clean, clear water. Water which reaches streams by subsurface flow usually is under better control, he said, adding that surface run-off increases soil erosion by bulking streams with sediment and debris.

A forester interested in wood production is greatly concerned with maintaining soil in an undamaged condition, he said, and a soil capable of producing maximum forest growth is likely to contribute water of high quality to stream flow.

It has been estimated that more than half of the watershed problems attributable to logging are the result of road construction, which bares the soil, compacts it and collects surface water.

Loggers, therefore, are advised to locate roads on ridges or benches, provide adequate drainage, lead road drainage off at short intervals, avoid formation of ruts, seed road fills with grass or other vegetation, and build culverts large enough to handle excessive flood conditions.

In actual logging, Mr. Haddock suggested leaving wind-firm trees on stream banks, falling streamside trees that must be cut away from the bank, preventing the accumulation of debris in ravines and stream channels and keeping tractor skidding to a minimum on steep grades or highly erodible soils. J. L. MacDonald, dyking commissioner in the provincial agriculture department, reviewed the history of dyking in the Fraser Valley from 1864, when Samuel Brighthouse dyked low lands on Lulu Island, to the present.

Companies and individuals dyked land until 1894, when a disastrous flood washed out bridges, smashed dykes, flooded land, and revealed that the replacement task was beyond the ability of private enterprise.

By 1926 the entire project was completed, but for the next 22 years there was not enough money for maintenance and improvement, and residents had been lulled into a sense of security.

1948 FLOOD COSTLY
When the 1948 flood occurred it inundated 55,000 acres, and forced the expenditure of well over $35,000,000 for repairs and replacements.

As a result, the "Fraser Valley Dyking Board Act" was passed that calls for federal expenditure of 75 per cent and provincial expenditure of 25 per cent for strengthening, repairing, and reconstructing Fraser Valley dykes.

Reconstruction was ended in 1950, but there is still much to be desired in the way of erosion sections and slopes, Mr. MacDonald said.

However, he said, the Fraser Valley Dyking Board recognized that "never without fabulous expenditures can the lower Fraser River be harnessed and controlled by a system of dykes."

Now, he said, the dyking commissioner has authority to inspect any dyke in the province and request any-dyking authority to make any repairs thought necessary.

MAY JOIN FORCES

At present both federal and provincial agencies work independently on the river, he said, and are accomplishing less than they would working together. However, he said, the B.C. government has initiated discussions with the federal government to clarify issues and establish authority.

Multiple use of water through storage dams was discussed by H. T. Nelson, regional director of Region 1, U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, using the Columbia River as his example.

He said several federal agencies have evolved procedures that recognize the need for basin-wide planning, for multiple-purpose benefits. They have led to large hydro-electric installations, fish and wildlife programs, recreational values, pollution abatement, and other benefits.

"Integrated operation of significant storage capacity in both the United States and Canadian portions of the Columbia River basin has taken place with a high degree of efficiency, with no impairment of basic at-site requirements, and remarkable downstream benefit, particularly for power production and flood control," he said.

HYDRO IS KEY

The key to British Columbia's economic development is hydro, Tom Ingledow, vice-president of the B.C. Electric Co., reported to the conference.

His speech, read by executive assistant R. M. Bibbs, said that less than one-tenth of the province's hydro possibilities have been realized. He said there is enough hydro to satisfy B.C.'s needs for the next 20 years.

"In the province's present state of development, gas and oil for electrical generation are no substitute for hydro power," he said.

For the future then, the vast expansion seen in our B.C. economy will require the development of additional sources of electrical energy at a rate greatly exceeding the rest of Canada."

Guy Constable, president of the Kootenay Valley Associated Drainage Districts, called for action on retaining major rivers within their banks to prevent erosion and flooding, in preference to building more dikes.

Mr. Constable warned of the "danger" that Kootenay farmlands in southeastern B.C. would be subjected to if the proposed Libby dam is built on the Kootenay River in northern Washington.

Several thousand acres of fertile land reclaimed by diking the silt-laden Kootenay River in B.C. would be submerged by backed-up water from such a dam, he said. Furthermore the project would wipe out many miles of Great Northern Railway tracks in southern B.C., "a major factor in our economy."

READ THE TIMES TO GET BOTH SIDES, MLAs TOLD

Social Crediters should read The Victoria Daily Times to get "the other side of the picture," George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) told the legislature Wednesday.

"You don't have to believe everything the paper believes," he added, amid laughter from the government benches, "but you would understand the Opposition's viewpoint better and I believe everyone in this House should study all sides of the questions before us."

$60,000 Boost For Heart Fund By Underwriters

Life insurance companies operating in Canada will provide the necessary funds to firmly establish the National Heart Foundation in Canada, it was announced in Toronto today.

The Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association, through its standing committee on public health, is undertaking to provide financial support to the extent of $60,000 in the next two years to enable the foundation to proceed with its organization activities.

Dr. John B. Armstrong, recently appointed executive secretary of the foundation, says its first function will be to co-ordinate research in Canada in cardiovascular diseases. Another function will be the education of the profession in this branch of medical science.

WIDE SURVEY

The foundation will survey the whole field of heart-disease research.

Dr. Armstrong also indicated that in order to demonstrate to the general practitioner how to apply results of research in heart diseases, the foundation will support the work of teams consisting of experts in cardiology who will visit outlying communities and assist local practitioners in diagnosis and treatment of cases of cardiovascular disease under the latter's care.

Title of Prime Minister for Bennett Would Boost Dignity, Gregory Claims

Premier Bennett should be given the title of Prime Minister, George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) told the legislature Wednesday.

"He holds the most responsible post in the province and there is no reason why he should not be called Prime Minister," Mr. Gregory said.

"If he were, I believe it would put an end to all this petty use words like 'mear' when is attacked."

Mr. Gregory said many d agreed politically with Prime Minister St. Laurent, but it was dom that anyone in the House Commons in Ottawa treated him with disrespect.

Forestry Act Change Demanded by CCFer

Most members of the B.C. Legislature are "deeply concerned" over the delay in making amendments to the Forestry Act, Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Wednesday.

He urged that Premier Bennett should call a special session as soon as the report of the Sloan Royal Commission on Forestry is placed in the government's hands. "I am certain many Social Credit members feel as I do that much-needed amendments to our forestry legislation should be delayed no longer than is absolutely necessary," Mr. Harding said.

"The forest policy this government has been following is rapidly ruining thousands of small operators in this province, and the situation in my own riding is acute."

Mr. Harding added that he had no intention of discussing amendments which "may not come before this House for several months."

He expressed regret that no mention of increased aid to "higher education" was made in the Throne Speech at the opening of the legislature.

SNAPELECTION HIT
This was understood to refer to repeated demands from the Opposition that the government make larger grants to the University of British Columbia to relieve overcrowding.

Mr. Harding also criticized the government for calling a "snap election" last September. He suggested there should be a set period for elections every four or five years.

"This would give us time to get good enumerators and good returning officers," he said. "Why disbar people from exercising their franchise? Any government that tries to manoeuvre people out of exercising their vote is doing the cause of democracy a great deal of harm."

Fire at a rural Saanich home shortly after 1 p.m. today caused several hundred dollars damage before it was extinguished by firemen.

Sidney Burdge, 86, and his wife had just finished lunch when alarmed by neighbors who saw flames racing up the south exterior wall of their three-room cottage at 857 Beckwith.

Cause was undetermined, although it is believed a rubbish fire had been burning near the premises earlier.

Interior damage from smoke and water was confined to walls, ceilings and floors. Firemen and volunteers removed most furnishings. Insurance was carried.

The house is located on property of Burdge Farms Ltd., operated by a nephew of Mr. Burdge.

Public Accounts Committee Named
Composition of the public accounts and printing committee of the B.C. Legislature was announced in the House Wednesday as:

Irvine Corbett (CCF-Burnaby), convener; W. J. Asselstine (SC-Atlin), Arvid Lundell (SC-Revelstoke), Alex Matthew (SC-Vancouver Centre), William Murray (SC-Prince Rupert), Frederick Sharp (SC-Vancouver East), J. Donald Smith (SC-Victoria), Eric Martin (SC-Vancouver Burrard), Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan), Leo Nimick (CCF-Cranbrook), Robert Strachan (CCF-Cowichan-Newcastle), P. A. Gibbs (Liberal-Oak Bay).

Pigs in Potatoes

Cook sausages by simmering in half cup boiling water 8 minutes, then browning. Combine and beat well: 1 tsp. each of minced onion and minced parsley, 2 cups mashed potatoes, 1 egg yolk. Coat the sausages with this mixture. Roll in the bread crumbs, dip into an egg diluted with 1 tsp. water, and again in the crumbs. Deep fry in hot fat to a golden brown.

Sausages in Creole Sauce with Rice

Using double boiler, steam 1 cup rice in 2 cups boiling water. Simmer sausages gently in half cup boiling water 8 minutes. Make a sauce of: 1 tin tomatoes, one-half a green pepper sliced (with leaves), one-half a green pepper, 1 tsp. melted butter. Add salt, pepper, paprika to taste. Place rice in serving dish between two layers of sausages, and cover with the sauce—an inexpensive and hearty dinner.

Well-Stocked Lakes Tourist Aid—Maffeo

NANAIMO—Mayor Pete Maffeo told the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night that the 32 lakes and six creeks and streams in this area should be kept stocked with fish as tourist attractions.

He suggested renewed interest in the coal industry is forthcoming for Nanaimo, and that two-thirds of the coal resources here are still underground despite 100 years of mining.

Nanaimo Gave $4,000 To Mothers' March

Generous contributions to the Mother's March on Polio Saturday came from most centres on Vancouver Island, with Nanaimo's $4,000 in the lead for the area outside Greater Victoria.

Other collections to date are: Port Alberni, $3,600; Chemainus, $1,218; Campbell River, $1,200; Courtenay, $2,100; Cumberland, $733; Ladysmith, $811.

Ruling on E & N 'Moral Victory', Declares Mayor

PORT ALBERNI—Mayor Loran K. Jordan has hailed as a "moral victory" the refusal of the Board of Transport Commissioners to allow the E & N Railway to discontinue its passenger service between here and Parksville.

As a result of a hearing in Victoria, on the railway's application to stop the service, the board recommended that the CPR investigate improvement in schedules, with another hearing indicated if changes do no result in increased revenue.

POLICE NEED WARRANT TO SEARCH CAR

NANAIMO—Police cannot search a car without a warrant, it was decided in police court here Wednesday.

Eldon Carl Adams, 23, was charged with obstructing a police officer by complaining when they searched his car and removed a case of beer from the back seat.

Contention of his counsel, E. D. Strongtharm, that a warrant was needed for the search, was upheld by the court. Adams was found not guilty.

City Cow Creates Milk Output Record

An eight-year-old Holstein cow owned by J. S. Judge & Sons' Epsom Dairy, Burnside Road, has set an all-time Vancouver Island record for milk and butterfat production.

Colinmar Josy Vrouka Vale produced 27,042 pounds of milk and 993 pounds of butterfat in a 365-day test period, according to records kept by Robin Lister, Cowichan Station, inspector for the Duncan Herd Improvement Association.

Burned-Out Family Aided By Neighbors

Robbed by fire of their home on Goward Road Saturday, David Jess and his family have accepted the offer of a cottage on West Saanich Road.

The cottage, owned by Victor Hartley, was offered the Jess family only a few hours after their five-room home burned to the ground.

Other residents of the Prospect Lake area have donated furniture, bedding, clothing, kitchenware, and food, but the destitute family has refused financial offers.

His family "isn't as bad off as others," Mr. Jess said.

Spokesman for the neighbors and president of the Prospect Lake Community Association, A. J. Shakespeare, 4904 Prospect, said "Everyone who knows them thinks the Jess' are wonderful people, and it was a pleasure to all of us to help."

Mr. Jess took out his first papers for Canadian citizenship two weeks ago. He arrived here a few years ago as an immigrant from France.

Ladysmith Honors Retired Pastor On 93rd Birthday

LADYSMITH—A birthday party for Rev. Christopher "Christie" McDiarmid, 93, retired United Church minister, was held at First United Church manse here by Rev. and Mrs. Thomas B. McMillan.

He came to Ladysmith in 1924, then retired in 1932, but continued to conduct services at South Wellington and Cedar until 1942. For 18 years he was secretary-manager of Ladysmith Agricultural Society, and was founder and leader of the 4-H Club. He also is judge of the annual Gladiolus Society show here.

The Jacques Cartier bridge at Montreal, 8,670-foot cantilever structure, was completed in 1930.

This budding virtuoso used to drive his family crazy; a trombone in the hands of a beginner can be trying on the nerves.

Things are better now. Father built him a practice room . . . thoroughly sound-proofed . . . with money he'd saved through a special account at the Royal Bank.

You may not need a room of this type in your house, but you may hope some day for a playroom, nursery, guest room, even major renovations. These cost money. So do practically all the good things you have planned for the future.

The wise course is to school yourself to set aside a fixed amount every pay day, and tuck it away in a savings account at the "Royal". This way you are sure to have cash when you need it. After all . . . there's nothing quite like money in the bank.

SHOPPING GUIDE

'Beach Ball' World Globes For Classrooms or Home

By PENNY SAVER

You can travel the world at a glance with the new, attractively colored desk globes being sold in town. Something new has been added to the world... the desk world, that is. Here's a deflatable globe. That's right, this large globe, much like a beach ball, turns on a wrought iron base and axis, and when it fades, is punctured or damaged, can be replaced. Just blow it up and set it into the stand. Brightly outlined countries on plastic are easily pointed out. The globe is $29.75, and replacement of globes costs $7.

A smaller globe for your desk is fitted with rollers on the bottom so a lamp as well. Attractively made, that you just steer it around the store or down the street. So you hit a little puddle, it doesn't matter, because you just wash it off. It's heavy-duty plastic weave. This long, long shopping bag is brightly patterned. It rolls up somewhat like an umbrella when not in use, and is easy to carry to the store. So new, and so much more interesting to use than a plain shopping bag, they are selling for $3.49.

The family is still in rain boots on and off in our unpredictable weather, so you mothers who have been despairing over socks worn out too soon because of rubber boots will appreciate the new type of socks I found. They're meant especially to be worn inside boots. Of fit-to-the-foot rubber, they are ankle high, and cover the socks, protecting them from rubbing against boots that are worn without shoes. In children's sizes, they are 29 cents a pair. What you save in stocking costs will more than pay for them.

For your bedroom or dressing room cupboards, there are lovely cracked china door knobs. Really, they have a wooden base, with a cracked china glaze over them, so they are sturdy, but look fragile. Hand-painted with delicate flowers, they would be interesting gifts to someone who you know would be able to use them in a specific room. In white, black or red, they are $1.50 each. They're imported.

On your next shopping tour, you needn't carry your shopping bag, you know, you can wheel it. Sure, there are wonderfully large shopping bags in town that are

Life Is Fun At 10 Downing

LONDON (Reuters)—Lady Dorothy Macmillan, wife of the new prime minister, Tuesday admitted that being the prime minister's wife "is fun and exciting and interesting."

Holding her first press conference since her husband took office Jan. 10, she said that "at the moment I feel a little lost."

"I don't know what invitations to accept or reject. And some people ask me to do the maddest things. I know I see my husband more than I used to but I don't know what to do with my time between engagements."

"Now, at home in Sussex," she went on, "I could be tidying up or gardening or something."

But at 10 Downing St., the prime minister's official London residence, she said: "They won't allow you to do much there."

Dressed in black silk and sporting a scarlet velvet hat and a heart-shaped bracelet of diamonds she laughed and told the reporters that the residence "is nicely furnished. Our bedrooms are in the attic, of course."

As for hanging her own pictures, she said: "They are not good enough. The Tate Gallery supplies the pictures and they are very beautiful."

As for Chequers, the prime minister's official country residence 38 miles from London, she said it's like "living in a hotel, it isn't home."

On Etiquette

About an "at home" party: I am planning to entertain with an "at home" for my in-laws who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Do I have to issue invitations or will an announcement in the newspapers be sufficient? I don't want it to look as if we were expecting friends to send gifts.

Louise Davis answers: When giving any kind of a party, it is your responsibility to do the inviting yourself, either by telephone, written note or engraved card. You should not depend on a newspaper to inform your friends of the anniversary. 79 years, registration open; The newspaper 7 p.m., Sub-debs; 8 p.m., Senior might not be Cam.

able to guarantee publication. Friends and relatives are bound to know that your husband's parents soon will be having a 50th wedding anniversary. A good compromise for the invitations (if you issue them by mail) would be: "Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Jones (on first line), Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Jones Jr. (second line), "at home" (third line), date, hours and place (below). This way there is no reference to the anniversary, even though friends will either know or guess.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Prominent Collarbone Plagues Many Women

Many women write to ask if there is anything that can be done to correct a collarbone which is too prominent. Usually this defect is due to bone structure and is an inherited characteristic with which you arrived in this world.

If this is the case there is nothing to do about it but forget it and dress so that it is least noticeable. However, there are other factors which can be corrected.

For instance, a prominent collarbone may come from poor posture. If your shoulders slump forward, this will be the case. Try pulling your shoulders forward and you will see what I mean. If this is your trouble an improvement in posture will solve the problem.

Perhaps underweight contributes to your difficulty. All bones are more prominent when a woman is very thin. A gain of weight will make a big difference. There also are exercises which develop the muscles of the neck and chest which are helpful.

Try this one. Lie across your bed on your back with your head and shoulders hanging off of the bed. Lift your head and touch your chin to your chest. Lower head backward and continue slowly.

Another. Stand tall and raise your arms sideward shoulder height. Clench your fists hard as you swing your arms toward one another, still shoulder height. Swing the arms sideward and relax hands. Continue, swinging together and clenching fists and swinging apart and relaxing hands.

As to clothes, use the stylish

Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross will be hostess at a tea-hour reception in Government House today when guests will be executive members and delegates attending the two-day annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women held here. Sessions concluded this morning and the gathering attended the afternoon session of the British Columbia legislature before going on to Government House.

Many Parties Attend Dance

Among party decorations of hearts and cupid, a large crowd enjoyed the music of Len Acres at the Royal Jubilee Hospital Alumnae Association dance. This is the first time in almost 15 years that the association has sponsored a dance, and the enthusiastic reception of the event indicates it will once again become an annual affair. Prior to the dance, guests of honor were among those entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bolt, Richmond Avenue. Present were Mr. and Mrs. G. Masters, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Anderson and Mr. F. Mullner. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. Chater, Mr. and Mrs. V. Knappick, Mr. and Mrs. G. Litster, Dr. and Mrs. D. McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. A. Maurant, Miss Shirley Duck and Mr. Laurie Wilson.

Among parties arranged for the dance were Mrs. W. Burnett and Mrs. Penn with parties of 16, Mrs. G. McCann had a party of 14, Mrs. K. Ross, 18, Mrs. W. Huxtable, 10 and Miss E. Pillinger, 10. Miss B. Hooper's party numbered eight, as did Mrs. W. Pickering's, and with a party of six was Miss E. Nixon. Miss M. Atkin, celebrating her birthday had a group of 10 and Mrs. J. McCague invited 14 guests.

Council Luncheon Party

Arrangements of daffodils added a springtime note to tables in Oak Bay Beach Hotel dining room on Wednesday when delegates attending the 38th annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women in Victoria gathered for a luncheon party.

Seated at the head table with the president, Mrs. G. W. Kissick, were the council's honorary president and honorary vice-president, Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett. Others at the head table were Ald. Arthur Dowell and Mrs. Dowell, Mrs. Buda Brown, MLA, Mrs. Lois Hagen, MLA; the guest speaker, Hon. Leslie R. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. H. S. Armstrong, immediate past president of council; Mrs. E. L. Johns, president, Victoria council, and Miss Ruth MacLean. During the luncheon Mrs. Johns brought greetings from the local council and Mrs. Kissick read a message from Mrs. Rex Eaton, national council president. The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Armstrong and thanked by Mrs. J. R. McPhee, Chilliwack.

Following meeting of the council, yesterday evening in the Empress Hotel, delegates were entertained at a small reception in the Orange Hall arranged by the Victoria Council of Women.

For Cocktails

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Watt will welcome guests to a "get acquainted" cocktail party Saturday evening at the Victoria Golf Club when Vancouver Island Chartered Accountants' Club entertain. Among the guests at the party, the club's main event of the year, will be a number of up-land chartered accountants.

Bridal Shower

February bride-elect, Miss Mildred Jackson, Victoria telephone operator, was honored by her fellow associates at B.C. Telephone Company at a miscellaneous shower in the office lounge. Spring flowers were arranged through the room and gifts were arranged in a decorated container. Miss M. Burley, chief operator, presented Miss Jackson with the staff gift, a walnut coffee table and a copper smoking stand. Mrs. Joan Todd presented her with a corsage of red and white carnations. Miss Doreen Buckingham and Mrs. Todd were in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Mary Young, Mrs. Myra Collins, Mrs. Peggy Nash, Mrs. Edna Bull, Mrs. Helen Karas and Miss Lorraine Hilton.

Miriam Temple Holds Spring Ceremonial

Annual spring ceremonial of Miriam Temple No. 2, Daughters of the Nile, to honor up-land members was held Wednesday evening, in K of P Hall, with Queen Ann Bagattin presiding. Visitors, Queen Kathleen Boone of Hatasu Temple No. 1, Seattle, Wash., and Queen Kerma More of Zora Temple No. 5, Tacoma, Wash., were welcomed. They were accompanied by several of their officers. Other guests were members of Miriam Temple's Isis Club, Courtenay, and Zora Club, Nanaimo.

Four candidates received initiatory degrees. Preceding the meeting, a banquet was held at Monterey Restaurant, covers being laid for 90.

On Friday, Queen Ann Bagattin, accompanied by officers and choir members will travel to Vancouver to be honor guests of Zarah Temple No. 72 at an afternoon spring ceremonial. Choir will assist in the ceremonial and in entertainment following a banquet in the Masonic Temple.

Clubwomen's News

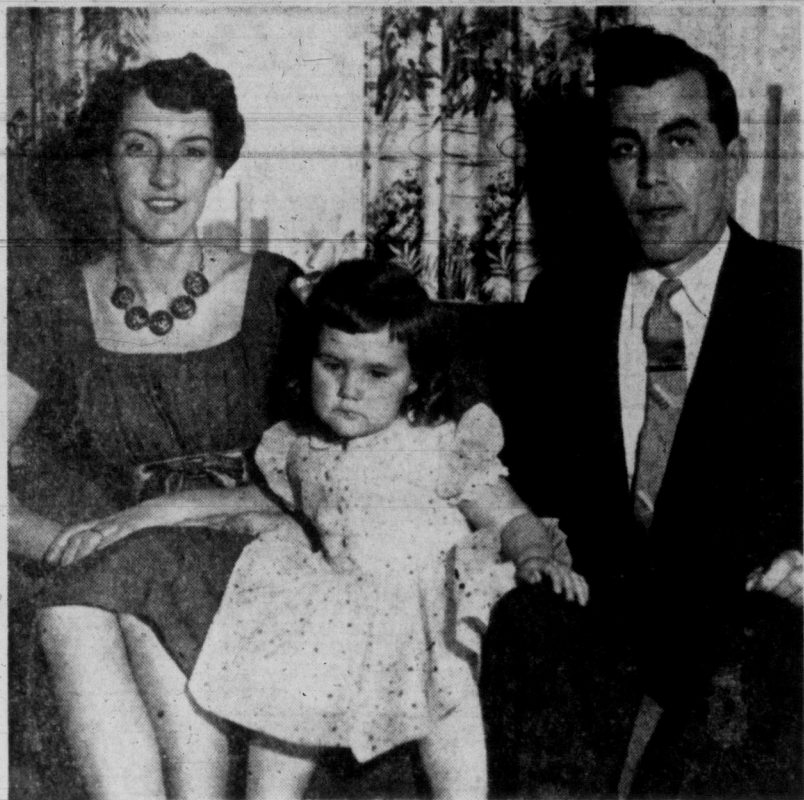

For Refugees—Mrs. W. D. Morgan presided at recent meeting of the Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, when members made and packed personal property bags for distribution to Hungarian refugees. An essay topic to be presented at the next national convention will be "Canada's Role in the United Nations." The assembly made donations to the Canadian Daughters' League Cancer Research Fund and to provincial council.

Missionary Society Studies Far East

Mrs. J. Jones was in charge of a program based on the study book, "East of Burma," at a recent meeting of the Missionary Society of the Metropolitan United Church. Those taking part were Mrs. Pearl Bewell, Mrs. C. E. Sonly, Mrs. W. H. Thompson and Mrs. H. C. Steele.

Mrs. J. Boorman presided at the meeting and Mrs. J. L. Stewart and Miss J. Scott were introduced as new members.

Mrs. H. H. Kerley led the devotional and reports of Presbyterial meetings were given by Mrs. J. D. Wilson and Mrs. J. E. Brown. Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON CHRISTENING

Little Sherry Diane McIntosh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell P. McIntosh, 2407 Government Street, will be christened on Sunday, her second birthday, in St. John's Church. Rev. A. W. Collmer will officiate at the ceremony. Godparents will be Mr. and Mrs. P. Neal of Victoria, and Mrs. N. Williamson, the little girl's aunt, from Campbell River. Sherry Diane's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Agate of Nanaimo. Mrs. Agate will be among special guests at the christening.

Panel Discussion on Schools at University Women's Club Meeting

"About Our Schools" was topic of a panel presented to University Women's Club, Wednesday night, by members of its Canadian affairs study group. Moderator was Miss Anne L. Gorham. Mrs. D. L. South, Mrs. M. E. Muttart, Mrs. M. C. M. Matheson, Mrs. G. A. Wood and Mrs. H. Donaldson presented points of view on the local building situation, the "Williston Formula," the stated provincial aims of primary and secondary education, recent attempts to meet the needs of both accelerated and retarded groups, the non-academic subjects of the high school program and finally the inevitable results in our own schools if the forthcoming school referendum is defeated.

Animated discussion at the close of the panel testified to the interest of the meeting. Mrs. R. S. Twining thanked the speakers.

During the business meeting, president Mrs. M. F. Smith paid tribute to Mrs. A. J. Butterfield, Mrs. J. M. Thomas and Mrs. H. A. Arnold, who were elected vice-presidents of Local Council of Women. Mrs. Dexter Stockill introduced new members, Mrs. E. G. Tallman and Miss Beatrice Reilly and Mrs. A. W. Hobbs who has transferred from Calgary.

It was decided to increase the annual donation to the International Federation Relief Fund to $50 and to make a further donation of $25 to the Relief Fund for Hungarian University Women.

Mrs. A. H. Gunning reported an enrollment of over 200 for the regional conference to be held here on March 9, when Willard Ireland, the luncheon speaker, will address the conference on "Culture in Canada—Its Prospects and Problems."

A scholarship tea will be held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel on March 30 under the convenship of Mrs. W. G. Dempsey.

At close of the meeting, coffee was served by Mrs. Dempsey, assisted by Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs, Mrs. K. S. Hurn, Mrs. P. Rogers and Mrs. W. A. Falk.

PROVINCIAL COUNCIL ASKS

New Vocational School; More Women Probation Officers; Hansard Report

Problems of women offenders; the need for vocational schools, the Municipal Act and the provincial archives all have a place in resolutions to be presented to Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his Cabinet ministers by Provincial Council of Women, at a special meeting in the Parliament Buildings tonight.

Led by the president, Mrs. G. W. Kissick, West Vancouver, the delegation will include executive and other council members. Provincial Council represents more than 35,000 women in British Columbia.

One resolution will urge the attorney-general of British Columbia to extend and enlarge the probation service by appointment to it of "further and other woman probation officers." The resolution adds that because of absence of facilities for probation, many women now in jail are convicted of offences for which other offenders—in other provinces—are being satisfactorily handled on probation.

There is only one woman probation officer serving in British Columbia.

TO ASSIST GIRLS

The British Columbia government will be asked to consider the establishment of a vocational school at secondary level, in Victoria, similar to those in Vancouver and Prince George. Such a school would fill a further need for vocational training and up-grading beyond secondary level by use in evenings.

It will be pointed out that the F. T. Fairley Technical School cannot take girls and that the proposed school would fill a need, not only in Victoria but on lower Vancouver Island. Its courses would include practical nursing, hair dressing, home services, commercial, electronics and nurses' aid training.

The delegation will ask that the Practical Nurses' Act, passed in 1952, be implemented. They will request the government to publish a report of the proceedings and debates of its provincial legislature in the form of a Hansard. Concern will also be voiced at the limited space and money for development of the provincial archives.

The delegation will urge the government to maintain the clauses of the present Municipal Act—expected to be taken up for revision at the present session—which allows for either appointed or elected police and parks commissioners.

Three resolutions presented last year will again be taken to the cabinet. These include preservation of sites and monuments of historic significance to British Columbia; that a children's observation centre for residence, observation and training of emotionally disturbed children be established at the earliest possible date and that the provincial government introduce regulations requiring the use of humane methods for the slaughter of all food animals in British Columbia.

NAME OFFICERS

At the 38th annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women, held in the Empress Hotel yesterday, Mrs. G. W. Kissick, West Vancouver, was re-elected president for another year.

Other officers are Dr. Henrietta Anderson, Victoria, first vice-president; Mrs. R. T. Gilmore, New Westminster, second; Mrs. H. F. Hines, Vancouver, third; Mrs. J. H. Smith, West Vancouver, fourth; Mrs. J. S. Dobinson, Nanaimo, fifth; Mrs. J. R. McPhee, Chilliwack, recording secretary; Mrs. O. Thornton, Chilliwack, treasurer.

Chairmen are Mrs. T. F. Williams, Kelowna, education; Mrs. D. Macdonald, New Westminster, health and welfare; Miss Ann Sutherland, Vancouver, laws; Mrs. E. E. Livesey, Victoria, constitution and resolutions, and Mrs. E. G. Pearson, New Westminster, archivist.

Mrs. Fred J. Hollis, Vancouver recording secretary for the past 16 years, resigned at the meeting. Her position will be filled by appointment.

that spades and clubs would each break three-two his tricks appeared to be in plain sight. If the black suit failed to break he would be set, but nothing could be done about that and he wasn't vulnerable anyway.

South trumped the second diamond lead and South had been guilty of one of the principal bridge crimes. Pulling trumps before he could afford it. A number of lines of play would have made the hand for South cleared the clubs and established a heart trick before he used up dummy's trumps.

A simple line after ruffing the diamond at trick 11 would be to play the clubs. West would win the trick lead and play a diamond. South would trump and lead a heart. East would win that trick but would be helpless because South would be able to trump a fourth diamond lead in dummy and still draw East's three trumps.

Sleeve Blamed In Auto Death

(From CP Dispatches)
VANCOUVER—A coroner's jury recommended Wednesday that driving knobs on the steering wheels of passenger autos be abolished "unless authorized by the proper authorities in certain cases."

It based the recommendation on testimony given at the inquest into the death here Sunday of Mrs. Marion Spain. Witnesses said the sleeve of Ronald Martin, 18, driver of the car that struck and killed Mrs. Spain, became tangled around a steering knob. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Three Killed As Car Hits Passenger Train

HARGRAVE, Man. (CP)—A man, woman and a young boy, all from Bengough, Sask., were killed and two persons were severely injured Wednesday when their car collided with a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train at this town, 55 miles west of Brandon.

RCMP identified the dead as Hans Peter Lilljor, Mrs. Hanna Lilljor and the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCuaig.

Mrs. McCuaig was in critical condition in hospital at nearby Virden. Her 10-month-old boy was in fair condition.

The CPR's eastbound Dominion plowed into the car at a level crossing just east of here, shearing off the front end of the car. Those killed were in the front seat.

The impact of the collision carried the vehicle into a ditch and tossed the car's engine more than 100 yards, leaving it leaning against a fence.

RUSS MYSTERY PATIENT VICTIM OF LEUKEMIA

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Vyacheslav Aleksandrovich Malyshev, 51, the Soviet Union's No. 1 expert on new industrial techniques and generally identified as being in charge of Russia's atomic production program, died of leukemia here Wednesday night after a month's illness.

A West German specialist in blood diseases, Prof. Hans Schulten, Cologne, was flown to Moscow by Soviet officials three weeks ago to treat a patient described at the time as a member of the Soviet government.

Foreign sources later identified the mystery patient as Malyshev. Schulten said his patient had not suffered from atomic radiation.

ISRAEL'S BEN GURION LEAVES 'DOOR OPEN'

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Premier David Ben Gurion tonight rejected any demand that Israel withdraw from the Gaza Strip or the Gulf of Aqaba "without assurances."

But he told the Knesset (parliament) that he hopes the "door to further discussion" with the United States is still open.

The prime minister said Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the U.S., will return to Washington Friday to present the Israeli government's views to the Eisenhower administration in a new effort to reach an understanding. (See Page 3.)

Ontario Hikes Tax on Gasoline

First Major Changes in 18 Years;
Okays New Federal Income Tax Pact

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario today announced its first major tax changes in 18 years, imposing an 11-per-cent levy on corporation income for the first time in recent history and increasing its gasoline tax two cents a gallon to 13 cents. The gas tax boost is effective at 12.01 a.m. Friday.

East Exchanges Stop Dealings With Edmonton

(CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO — The Edmonton Stock Exchange is being dropped from affiliation by Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges. The move, unprecedented in Canadian financial circles, is to be formally announced Friday.

The decision to cut off reciprocal commission transactions was the direct result of an official of the Edmonton exchange, Marcel Adam Miles, of the brokerage firm of Stahl, Miles Co., of Edmonton, being involved in an alleged stock swindle in New York, which N.Y. state attorney-general said may have cost investors $6,000,000. (See page 3.)

STRACHAN STANDS BY CLAIM

CCF Income Tax Story Discounted

Government sources and Social Credit members were skeptical today over a CCF statement issued late Wednesday night that B.C.'s government is planning to enter the personal income tax and corporation tax fields after the federal-provincial agreement expires March 31.

They pointed to a passage in the Throne Speech which said conferences during the past year between the federal and provincial governments on a new tax-rental agreement have "improved slightly the original terms."

"This does not indicate the tax-rental agreement will not be renewed," one source said.

OTHERS OMITTED

It was also pointed out that other legislative policies were omitted from the Throne Speech, including the question of aid to the University of British Columbia and the Wenner-Gren northern development.

Premier Bennett was unavailable for comment this morning. He delivers the budget speech Friday afternoon.

A Cabinet minister said: "The CCF has no responsibilities in government policy matters, it can say what it likes."

Meanwhile, CCF Leader Robert Strachan said his party is standing by its Wednesday night statement.

SPEECH TODAY

The statement was based on a speech to be made in the House today by John Squire (CCF-Alberni).

The CCF is basing its contention primarily on the fact that for the first time since tax-sharing agreements started in 1942, there was no mention of renewing the agreement in the Throne Speech.

The party also noted Premier Bennett has voiced dissatisfaction with terms offered after each conference with Ottawa.

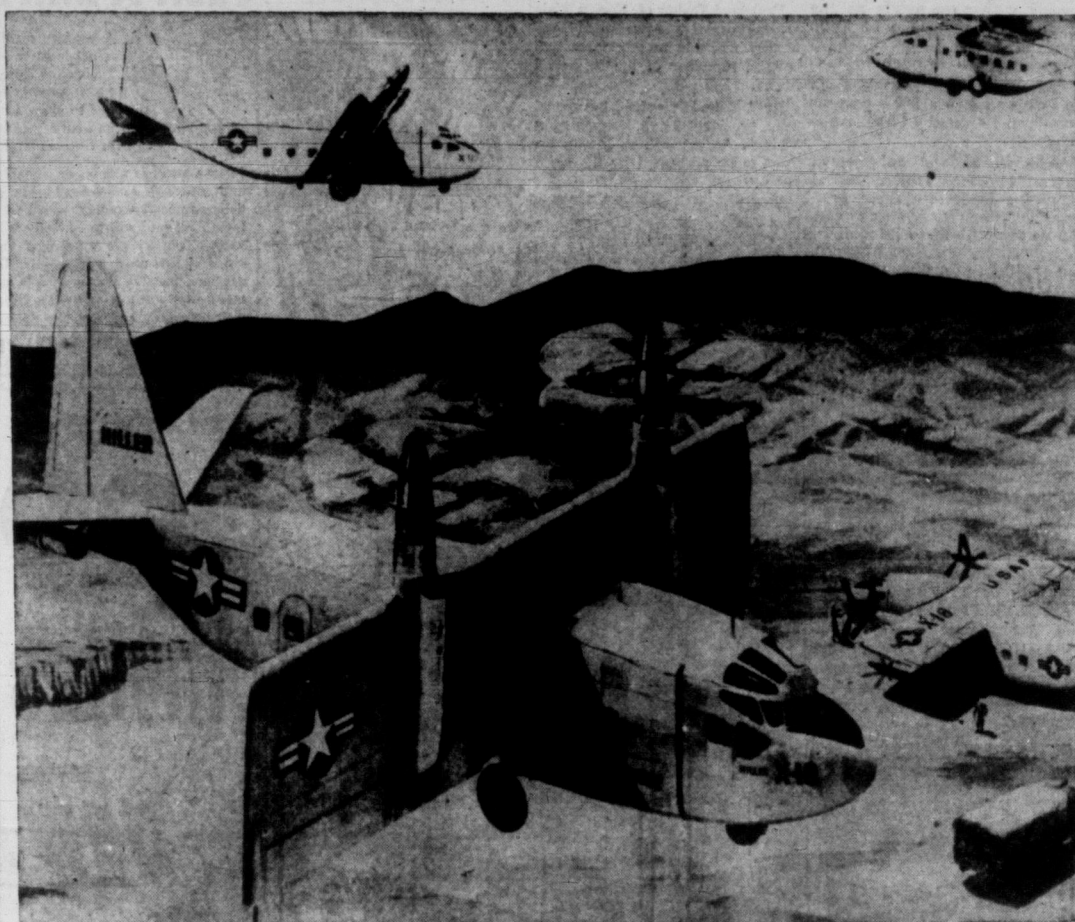

PORTUGUESE STORK TATTLING ON QUEEN?

VILLA FRANCA, Portugal (AP)—A stork flew low over Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh here Wednesday.

In Portugal the presence of a stork means only one thing—an addition to the family.

RUNAWAY U.S. ROCKET CRASHES IN COLORADO

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—A Matador guided missile which went out of control eight minutes after it was launched from a New Mexico base today, crashed in western Colorado.

An air force spokesman in Washington said the runaway rocket hit an uninhabited Colorado mountain area. No one was hurt and no damage was done.

FOR DEFENCE IN WAR

U.S. A-Rocket Jets Allowed Over Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will allow United States jet interceptors equipped with the new atomic rockets to fly over Canadian territory in the event of an emergency, a high defence authority said today.

The authority said that emergency meant war in which the defence of the two countries might become involved.

He added that there would have to be "checks and balances worked out in connection with any American flights over Canada, indicating that the Americans might be required to obtain specific approval in connection with each flight involving atomic rockets.

The U.S. announced Wednesday that the atomic rockets have been developed to blast down enemy bombers and that they have been made available to U.S. air defence forces. The rockets are designed for firing from jet fighter-interceptors.

Canada's CF-100 all-weather jet interceptor carries rockets but they have no atomic warheads, defence officials said, adding that none of the American atomic rockets are being stored in Canada.

Driver Barry H. Kaehn, 1063 Costin, Langford, testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act that he had been about to make an oil delivery at the Clifford home, 1141 Palmer, when he saw the child playing in the driveway. He continued to the next house before backing and turning because he "felt it was safer."

Mr. Kaehn said he did not feel the child pass beneath the wheels. He looked from the cab window and saw a tiny bundle at the side of the road, but recalled, "I thought it was just a coat—until I got out of the truck and looked again."

The small boy "must have come just like lightning," he said.

Saanich Const. Norman Baker told the jury the truck driver was in a "mild state of hysteria" when he arrived at the scene at 1:50 p.m. Rear view windows on both sides of the cab were in good condition, he said.

Funeral of the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clifford, will be held Saturday at 3, at McCall's.

2nd Suspect Held In Bank Hold-Up

Second suspect in connection with the Feb. 11 armed robbery of the $3,000 from James Bay branch of the Bank of Commerce was arrested in Vancouver at 2:30 a.m. today.

Two Victoria detectives were sent to the mainland this morning to bring the 25-year-old man back following his arrest in a hotel room by Vancouver detectives.

Victoria police would not elaborate. First suspect was arrested in Saanich Feb. 14.

Barry Irwin Keele, 26, Victoria, elected trial by judge and jury and bail was set at $10,000 when he appeared in city court Feb. 15 and 13. He remains in custody.

Vancouver police said the man they arrested today after close watch since early Wednesday night had $600 in his possession.

N. Ontario Leading

WINNIPEG (CP)—Northern Ontario took the lead this morning in the Canadian High School curling championships by defeating Alberta, 9-7, while Ontario was losing to New Brunswick, 8-7. Result left Northern Ontario with seven wins and one loss and Ontario in second place with six victories and two defeats. Final games will be played tonight. B.C. lost to P.E.I., 11-8.

WENNER-GREN INTERVIEWED

'For Benefit Of Mankind'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver newspaper dispatch from Mexico City quotes Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren as reiterating Wednesday that he regards his vast development scheme for northern British Columbia as an opportunity to tap hidden resources for the benefit of mankind, not just a personal money-making venture.

Dr. Wenner-Gren was interviewed in his office in Mexico City, the headquarters for his world-wide interests.

"All my assets will go to philanthropic and altruistic foundations," Dr. Wenner-Gren said.

BORN IN 20s

He said the idea for a $1,000,000,000 hydro and mineral development in the Rocky Mountain Trench from northern B.C. to the Yukon border was conceived during visits to Canada in the 1920s and 1940.

Dr. Wenner-Gren denied he showed Nazi sympathies during the Second World War.

"My personal guess is that it was purely personal animosity by one of the top officials in Washington."

"I have always been outspoken in my anti-Communist sentiments and at that time the Communists had infiltrated into and had great influence in the state department."

Ike May Have Aggravated UN Problems

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Developments at the United Nations to try to dampen down the Israeli-Egyptian powder keg are viewed by the St. Laurent government with grave concern.

The cabinet is keeping a close and almost constant communication with Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs who now is in New York. President Eisenhower's address Wednesday night did little to ease the tension of the international situation. In fact he may have aggravated the problems confronting the United Nations, it was suggested here in informed circles.

Before leaving Ottawa late Wednesday Mr. Pearson expressed the view that the time had not arrived for a resolution to be introduced at the UN to apply sanctions on Israel to try and force that country to withdraw.

All other possibilities for bringing about agreed withdrawal of Israeli forces should be thoroughly explored, he said. The unofficial government view is that it would be both "premature and unwise" to consider a proposal for sanctions against Israel at this time.

Another suggestion is that Canada should supply naval units to patrol the Gulf of Aqaba.

This has been greeted with an extremely unenthusiastic response here. The suggestion is believed to have resulted from the fact that Mr. Pearson previously proposed that a UN naval force might patrol the gulf to encourage the Israeli government to withdraw its forces.

Apparently some delegations at the UN and some correspondents at New York, interpreted Mr. Pearson's plan to mean that only Canadian naval vessels would be used.

Canada is not anxious to supply naval vessels and now has standing by an army reconnaissance unit which has been requested by the UN. It is understood this unit will not be despatched until the present situation has been clarified.

Arab states in the UN calling for sanctions against Israel are said to be preparing to introduce such a resolution when the assembly meets Friday.

Ike Assailed in U.K.; UN Guarantees Urged

LONDON (AP)—President Eisenhower was assailed in parliament today on the ground he failed to consult Britain before his policy statement calling on Israeli troops to withdraw from Egyptian territory.

Aneurin Bevan, Labor foreign policy spokesman, demanded that Britain notify America "it is a very undesirable pattern that the United States should be issuing statements about policy without consulting her allies."

Emanuel Shinwell, defence minister in the former Labor government, said there is "no reason why this House should condone any mistake made by President Eisenhower."

Hugh Fraser, Conservative, said "I think the question of forcing Israel back without proper guarantees for Israel's future is not acceptable..." Their statements were made shortly after the foreign office said it felt Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory should be combined with a United Nations guarantee of Israel's security in the Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza Strip areas.

500 BALLOTS NOW IN

How Do YOU Vote on Deal?

More than 500 Times readers have voted so far in the public opinion poll regarding the proposal of Axel Wenner-Gren for a multi-million dollar development of British Columbia's northland.

The B.C. government has placed a reserve on some 40,000 square miles in the Omineca region until such time as the Wenner-Gren company does a $5,000,000 survey to determine what assets it needs for a monorail and industrial development.

The heavy mail response today indicated the widespread interest in the scheme and the sharp feelings of people about it.

Tabulation of the ballots began today, but it was decided no results will be published until the voting is closed. The ballot appears for the last time below and it is likely results will appear on Saturday.

Here is the ballot:

Do you think it is wise to tie up an area of this size for the benefit of one group of interests? YES ☐ NO ☐

Do you think B.C. should enter into any deal with the Wenner-Gren interests? YES ☐ NO ☐

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

What's Up, Eric? (Correction) Doc

Should a member of the B.C. cabinet have a Bugs Bunny book on his desk?

This searching question was raised Wednesday by Randolph Harding, fiery CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan.

Just what Bugs Bunny had to do with Mr. Harding's argument was none too clear. But it seemed to imply that if cabinet ministers can accommodate Bugs Bunny books on their desks they should be able to accommodate out-of-town members of the legislature who call on them between sessions.

Mr. Harding said he called on a minister who had hitherto been too busy to see him

(he was looking in the direction of Health Minister Eric Martin) and there on his desk was Bugs Bunny.

Without delving deeper into the virtues of Bugs Bunny as part of a cabinet minister's office equipment, Mr. Harding complained that MLAs had to come to Victoria six months before a session opened in order to get things done for their constituents.

He was checked by Premier Bennett, who told him members should visit Victoria once every month.

This nettled Mr. Harding. He said members in distant ridings could not afford to come here every month.

Ministers Away Fighting Elections

"And when they get here," he added, "they may find the ministers away fighting an election in some other province... They are our members as much as ministers of the province and every member of this House has a right to see them."

The title of Prime Minister was conferred on Premier Bennett Wednesday by no less a person than George Gregory, Liberal MLA for Victoria.

Mr. Gregory believed if Mr. Bennett were called Prime Minister it would lend more dignity to the House and everyone (including the prime minister) would "behave better" in consequence.

The Liberal member then implemented his suggestion by referring to Mr. Bennett as Prime Minister throughout the remainder of the sitting.

The Prime Minister made no comment, but Attorney-General Robert Bonner graciously accepted the designation on his behalf.

"This designation has been used officially for many years but it has never been insisted upon," Mr. Bonner said. "It is a fair designation and it is accepted with the good heart in which it was intended."

'Smear, Smear, Smear,' Says Page

What do the uniformed page boys who run messages in the legislature think of the current session?

Mr. Gregory was curious to know. He stopped one of the boys and asked him.

"Oh," said the boy, "it's all smear, smear, smear."

Women occupied most of the seats in the public galleries during the second night sitting of the session and their eyes focused naturally on the dresses worn by the two lady members of the House—Mrs. Lois Haggen, who has succeeded her husband as the CCF member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, and Mrs.

Buda Brown, who has replaced Liberal leader Arthur Laing as the member for Vancouver-Point Grey.

Queen, Duke Ride in Truck At Oporto

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh returned to Britain tonight from their tour of Portugal.

Oporto, Portugal (CP) — Queen Elizabeth bounced around the cobblestone streets of Oporto in an old police truck today as she brought her state visit to Portugal to a close.

The Queen, visiting this port wine centre on her way home to London, chose the truck herself.

It was the only vehicle town officials could supply when the Queen asked for an open car so the people could see her. Normally, the truck is used to transport police squads to trouble spots.

Shouting crowds covered the roads with rose petals as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, bounced on a hard wooden bench through town.

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The $200,000,000 mid-Canada radar warning line will be in full operation in early April, assuming good weather conditions, defence department officials said.

The western section of the line — between James Bay and the Peace River district of Alberta — went into operation on schedule New Year's Day but authorities say execrable weather has delayed completion of the eastern sector from James Bay to the Labrador coast.

Meanwhile, officials disclosed that operation of the 3,000-mile line in its first year will cost about $18,000,000. This amount is included in the defence department estimates which have already been submitted to Parliament.

MANNED BY 800

Civil Service Pay Hike for Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — A general pay increase totalling about $1,000,000 for Manitoba's civil servants was disclosed in the provincial estimates tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Provincial Treasurer C. E. Greenlay. The pay increases come very close to the demands made by the civil servants, it was understood.

For most civil servants it will mean a pay increase of between $10 and $30 a month.

Gorge Hospital To Try Out 'Open Visiting'

Gorge Road Hospital has followed the lead of Royal Jubilee and effective immediately will follow a policy of "open visiting."

Hospital administrator Mrs. Florence Nutrie announced today visiting hours will be between 3 and 8 p.m. daily for a three-month trial period.

St. Joseph's Hospital and Veterans' Hospital still maintain the older schedules.

NATURAL RESOURCES TALK

Logging Roads Blamed For Watershed Trouble

Specific methods of reducing soil erosion from logging operations were given at the B.C. Natural Resources Conference in the Empress Hotel Wednesday by Philip G. Haddock, UBC associate forestry professor.

Watershed management, he said, is primarily the control of operations on a watershed to produce maximum regular flow of clean, clear water. Water which reaches streams by subsurface flow usually is under better control, he said, adding that surface run-off increases soil erosion by bulking streams with sediment and debris.

A forester interested in wood production is greatly concerned with maintaining soil in an undamaged condition, he said, and a soil capable of producing maximum forest growth is likely to contribute water of high quality to stream flow.

It has been estimated that more than half of the watershed problems attributable to logging are the result of road construction, which bares the soil, compacts it and collects surface water.

Loggers, therefore, are advised to locate roads on ridges or benches, provide adequate drainage, lead road drainage off at short intervals, avoid formation of ruts, seed raw fills with grass or other vegetation, and build culverts large enough to handle excessive flood conditions.

In actual logging, Mr. Haddock suggested leaving wind-firm trees on stream banks, falling streamside trees that must be cut away from the bank, preventing the accumulation of debris in ravines and stream channels and keeping tractor skidding to a minimum on steep grades or highly erodible soils. J. L. MacDonald, dyking commissioner in the provincial agriculture department, reviewed the history of dyking in the Fraser Valley from 1864, when Samuel Brighthouse dyked low lands on Lulu Island, to the present.

Companies and individuals dyked land until 1894, when a disastrous flood washed out bridges, smashed dykes, flooded land, and revealed that the replacement task was beyond the ability of private enterprise.

By 1926 the entire project was completed, but for the next 22 years there was not enough money for maintenance and improvement, and residents had been lulled into a sense of security.

1948 FLOOD COSTLY

When the 1948 flood occurred it inundated 55,000 acres, and forced the expenditure of well over $35,000,000 for repairs and replacements.

As a result, the "Fraser Valley Dyking Board Act" was passed that calls for federal expenditure of 75 per cent and provincial expenditure of 25 per cent for strengthening, repairing, and reconstructing Fraser Valley dykes.

Reconstruction was ended in 1950, but there is still much to be desired in the way of cross sections and slopes, Mr. MacDonald said.

However, he said, the Fraser Valley Dyking Board recognized that "never without fabulous expenditures can the lower Fraser River be harnessed and controlled by a system of dykes."

Forestry Act Change Demanded by CCFer

Most members of the B.C. Legislature are "deeply concerned" over the delay in making amendments to the Forestry Act, Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Wednesday.

He urged that Premier Bennett should call a special session as soon as the report of the Sloan Royal Commission on Forestry is placed in the government's hands. "I am certain many Social Credit members feel as I do that much-needed amendments to our forestry legislation should be delayed no longer than is absolutely necessary," Mr. Harding said.

"The forest policy this government has been following is rapidly ruining thousands of small operators in this province, and the situation in my own riding is acute." Mr. Harding added that he had no intention of discussing amendments which "may not come before this House for several months."

He expressed regret that no mention of increased aid to "higher education" was made in the Throne Speech at the opening of the legislature.

SNAP ELECTION HIT

This was understood to refer to repeated demands from the Opposition that the government make larger grants to the University of British Columbia to relieve overcrowding.

Mr. Harding also criticized the government for calling a "snap election" last September. He suggested there should be a set period for elections every four or five years.

"This would give us time to get good enumerators and good returning officers," he said. "Why disbar people from exercising their franchise? Any government that tries to manoeuvre people out of exercising their vote is doing the cause of democracy a great deal of harm."

Fire Damages Saanich Home, Two Escape

Fire at a rural Saanich home shortly after 1 p.m. today caused several hundred dollars damage before it was extinguished by firemen.

Sidney Burdge, 86, and his wife had just finished lunch when alarmed by neighbors who saw flames racing up the south exterior wall of their three-room cottage at 857 Beckwith.

Cause was undetermined, although it is believed a rubbish fire had been burning near the premises earlier.

Interior damage from smoke and water was confined to walls, ceilings and floors. Firemen and volunteers removed most furnishings. Insurance was carried.

The house is located on property of Burdge Farms Ltd., operated by a nephew of Mr. Burdge.

Public Accounts Committee Named

Composition of the public accounts and printing committee of the B.C. Legislature was announced in the House Wednesday as:

Irvine Corbett (CCF-Burnaby), convener; W. J. Asselstine (SC-Atlin), Arvid Lundell (SC-Revelstoke), Alex Matthews (SC-Vancouver Centre), William Murray (SC-Prince Rupert), Frederick Sharp (SC-Vancouver East), J. Donald Smith (SC-Victoria), Eric Martin (SC-Vancouver Burrard), Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan), Leo Nimmo (CCF-Cranbrook), Robert Strachan (CCF-Cowichan-Newcastle), P. A. Social Crediters should read The Victoria Daily Times to get "the other side of the picture," George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) told the legislature Wednesday. "You don't have to believe everything the paper believes," he added, amid laughter from the government benches, "but you would understand the Opposition's viewpoint better and I believe everyone in this House should study all sides of the questions before us."

$60,000 Boost For Heart Fund By Underwriters

Life insurance companies operating in Canada will provide the necessary funds to firmly establish the National Heart Foundation in Canada, it was announced in Toronto today.

The Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association, through its standing committee on public health, is undertaking to provide financial support to the extent of $60,000 in the next two years to enable the foundation to proceed with its organization activities.

Dr. John B. Armstrong, recently appointed executive secretary of the foundation, says its first function will be to co-ordinate research in Canada in cardiovascular diseases. Another function will be the education of the profession in this branch of medical science.

WIDE SURVEY

The foundation will survey the whole field of heart disease research.

Dr. Armstrong also indicated that in order to demonstrate to the general practitioner how to apply results of research in heart diseases, the foundation will support the work of teams consisting of experts in cardiology who will visit outlying communities and assist local practitioners in diagnosis and treatment of cases of cardiovascular disease under the latter's care.

Title of Prime Minister for Bennett Would Boost Dignity, Gregory Claims

Premier Bennett should be given the title of Prime Minister, George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) told the legislature Wednesday. "If he were, I believe it would use words like 'smear' when he is attacked," Mr. Gregory said many disagreed politically with Prime Minister St. Laurent, but it was seldom that anyone in the House of Commons in Ottawa treated him with disrespect. He, too, would be influenced by the title and would be less inclined to use words like 'smear' when he is attacked."

EDUCATION MINISTER
PETERSON
... not yet, but

Laggard High School Students Here May Get 'Bounce'

Education Minister Leslie Peterson indicated Wednesday, B.C. may follow the lead of Calgary in the expulsion of indifferent and "laggard" students in high schools.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Provincial Council of Women at Oak Bay Beach Hotel that at present "our school principals try quietly to influence the parents (of the laggards) and make them see this type of student would be better in some occupational field of endeavor."

But, he added, "with increased crowding of classrooms throughout the province, we soon may have to give more serious consideration to the problem."

The minister said students who are indifferent in the classroom and who do not apply themselves to their studies are a bad influence on others. In many instances, he continued, these students are not fitted for higher education and are only continuing at school because of ambitious plans their parents have for them.

He touched only lightly on the recent mid-term expulsions of indifferent students in Calgary high schools, saying this plan has not, as yet, been used in British Columbia.

The expulsion plan in Calgary is reported to be paying off with better classroom morale and higher marks.

Under threat of dismissal (31 were told to quit) some students have doubled their average exam percentage. No student who is trying hard but getting low marks is expelled.

An official there called the laggards "homesteaders" who occupied a seat, did no homework and handed in no assignments.

The educational picture today, as painted by Mr. Peterson, included good teaching, challenging courses and continued effort on the part of the student.

"There is no room for apathy,"

Based on this picture, the school curriculum cannot remain static, he said. It is constantly being revised and improved to meet "the technological and social problems of a civilization that becomes increasingly complex each year."

Looking to the future, Mr. Peterson predicted that the function of the specialist will increase and that of the unskilled laborer will decrease.

"There will be need for higher and higher levels of occupational skill."

The question of vocational and technical training is being studied by the educational department through the curriculum advisory board.

Two amendments to the present curriculum already suggested would require all secondary school pupils to take more work in mathematics and science and would increase the emphasis on English in the schools.

With a good command of English the pupil is likely to become a civilized and responsible member of society and will also be successful as a technical worker in industry.

Mr. Peterson was introduced by Mrs. L. R. Armstrong, New Westminster, past president of the Provincial Council of Women and a member of the curriculum advisory board. He was thanked by Mrs. T. F. McWilliams, Kelowna, Council president, Mrs. G. W. Klassik, West Vancouver, presided at the luncheon meeting.

MONTE ROBERTS

Recent dissertations in this space on the matter of spoonerized puns have led me to two conclusions: There are a great many spoonic punsters, or at least admirers of same, in this area. But there are only a handful of spoonerized puns in existence.

For instance, the spoonerized puns about people who live in grass houses has been submitted about 13 times.

I have had several offerings of the classic boy foot bear with teaks of Chan.

I have also been sent various versions of a strolling crone gathers no joss.

But I have not received a genuine, guaranteed, 100 per cent NEW spoonerized pun.

And I would dearly love to receive one.

In fact, it has just occurred to me that the ideal project for B.C.'s centennial year would be the creation of a brand-new spoonerized pun with a typically British Columbia appeal.

The spoonerized pun I have in mind would be an undoubted tourist attraction. It would be a lasting monument to British Columbia's 100th anniversary, because it is a well-known fact spoonerized puns last forever.

(Some of the spoonerized puns now in existence had Confucius groaning in his cradle.)

What is more, a spoonerized pun dealing with British Columbia would be the most appropriate project of all for this capital city of British Columbia.

Let the other cities, towns and hamlets have their aquariums, auditoriums, libraries, sewage systems and new front steps to the city hall.

Let us create a spoonerized pun for Victoria.

Is there a spoonic punster so craven he (or she) refuses to rise to this challenge? Hurry with your suggestion. The time grows short, and 1958 will be upon us soon.

Get in there and pun.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

One hour parking between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. has been recommended for residential areas surrounding the Legislative Buildings, Monday through Friday. City council works committee Wednesday proposed the plan to eliminate all-day parking in front of other people's homes. Council will be asked to endorse the scheme in three months, which will enable other parking arrangements to be made in the area of the government buildings.

One of two B.C. lumbermen who visited the mills and logging camps of Russia at the invitation of the Soviet government last year, A. P. MacBean will address a joint meeting of the Rotary and Canadian Clubs in the Empress Hotel at 12.10 next Thursday.

In the lumber industry in various capacities since 1927, Mr. MacBean is a graduate of the faculty of forestry, University of Toronto. At present he is chief forester and manager of the timber and lands division of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

Tenth annual meeting of the raters of Colwood Fire Protection District is scheduled next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Colwood Community Hall.

Exactly $26,900.88 has been donated to the Christmas Seal campaign for the B.C. Tuberculosis Society, chairman Mrs. M. A. Kinnitt announced today. Donations are still being received at campaign headquarters, Room 14, 749 Broughton. Final figure last year was $18,974. Annual appeal is sponsored by the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria.

James P. Kennedy, RCN, was fined $50 in city court today on a charge of having in his possession without a permit an automatic pistol.

Police arrested Kennedy at Memorial Arena and said he told them he bought the weapon from an American sailor. The gun, a Belgian make of about .45 calibre, was confiscated, along with some blank ammunition.

Motor licence offices throughout B.C. will be open next Saturday from 8.30 a.m. to 5 p.m. to give motorists an opportunity to secure their 1957 licence plates before the Feb. 28 deadline.

Social Credit Group No. 75 will elect officers at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the YWCA. After the meeting a film will be shown and refreshments served.

A speeding city police car chasing a law-breaking automobile at Kings and Ross Wednesday night was in collision with a car driven by Terrence Doherty, 3925 Glenford.

Medium damage was sustained by the police car, driven by Const. Louis Plets, heavy damage by Doherty's car.

Hold-up alarm sounded at 9.47 a.m. today sent city police rushing to Bank of Montreal main branch at Yates and Douglas to find the signal touched off by faulty wiring.

Sidney Vantreigh, 806 Halliburton, was fined $25 in city court today when convicted of failing to obey an order of the Fire Marshal's Office.

An order to effect repairs to an unused building at 1721 Cook was issued in December by city fire chief Frank Briers, assistant fire marshal for Victoria.

A subsequent order was issued in January after the accused failed to take proper action and the charge was laid following this when repairs, ments still were not observed.

Theft of cigarettes and money from a vending machine at Sky-lark Cafe, 1817 Douglas, overnight Wednesday was reported to city police early today.

A rear door to the cafe was forced, the cigarette machine dragged to the rear of the premises and tried open.

A pedestrian-operated traffic signal, first in this area, was recommended Wednesday by Victoria public works committee for installation near the Esquimalt Road-Rothwell intersection. Exact location will be decided before the matter goes to city council.

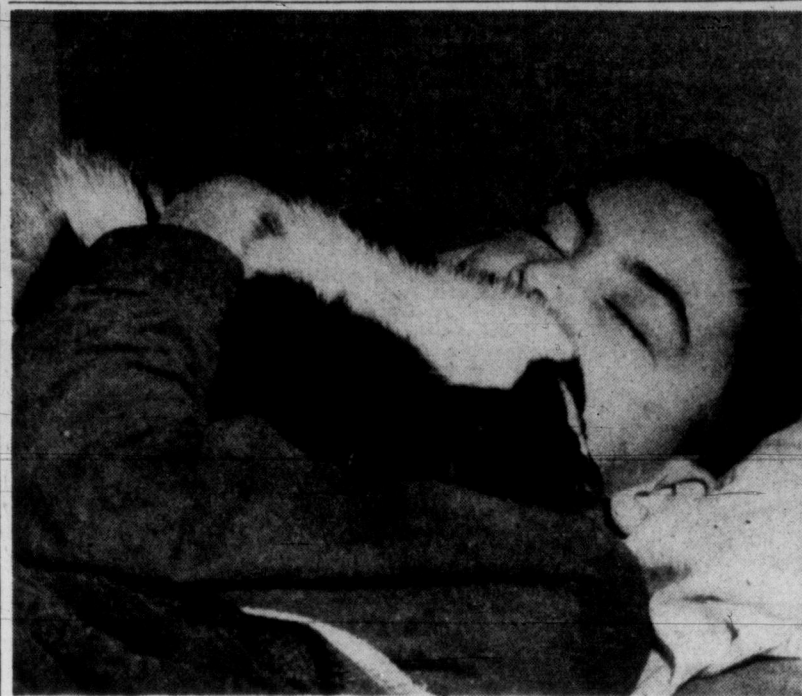

Plans All Made for Visit Of Diefenbaker on March 7

John Diefenbaker, leader of the federal Progressive Conservative party and of the Opposition in the House of Commons, will address a public meeting in Central Junior High School auditorium at 8 p.m., March 7.

Details of his visit here were announced today.

With him on the platform will be Major-General G. R. Pearkes, VC, sitting MP and candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich riding, and A. de B. McPhillips, candidate for Victoria.

Mr. Diefenbaker is scheduled to arrive at Patricia Bay airport at 3.15 p.m. March 7, where he

Death Row Cells Full At Oakalla

Judgment was reserved by the B.C. Court of Appeal today in the appeal of Edward Eaton of Langley against a conviction of murdering eight-year-old Caroline Moore on April 26, 1956.

Eaton, a ferry worker was found guilty by an Assize Court in December of beating a girl to death and leaving her in a sack on the edge of a road near Langley.

The five-man court chaired by Justice Sidney Smith did not give an indication when they would hand down judgment in the murder appeal.

They reserved judgment after Norman D. Mullins of Vancouver, counsel for Eaton made a last plea for a new trial for the convicted man.

THREE OTHERS

Meanwhile, Eaton will wait in "death row" at Oakalla with three other condemned men for the court's decision which will decide whether he will die on the gallows on March 12.

Death row is now full of convicted men—all scheduled to die within the next few months. They include James Carey and Joseph Gordon, scheduled for execution on March 19, for the shooting of a Vancouver policeman.

The other is Thomas Sidney Symes of Duncan, convicted of murdering a logger, Paul Richard Powling, on New Year's Day. He was sentenced to die on May 14.

EXECUTED

Only Tuesday, Gordon Buck of Williams Lake, convicted of murdering a child, left a death cell to die on the gallows.

Attorney-General's Department officials said they don't remember when there were so many men waiting for execution at one time in the prison's death row.

Eaton's only chance of escaping the gallows is in the Court of Appeal accepting his argument that two confessions he made to police should not have been admitted at the trial. He claimed he was induced and threatened to make the confessions which were not true.

CENTENNIAL PROJECT

New Ft. Victoria Architects' Aim

Reconstruction of Fort Victoria and an Indian village to be reached on the development to be undertaken with aid of a provincial 60-cent per capita grant.

He expressed alarm at the fact the centennial year is only 10 months away and so far the 40-cent per capita celebrations fund grant has not been received by his committee.

Until it is on hand a permanent planning office and staff cannot be established.

END OF MONTH

"I am hoping all suggestions will be in by the end of the month," he stated.

Under the centennial arrangements Greater Victoria must put up a matching sum to the 60-cent grant, which will amount to about $75,000.

Among other ideas so far suggested are: a contribution to the proposed new wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital, a children's skating rink to be added to Memorial Arena, an aquarium and tropical plant centre for Beacon Hill Park, dressing rooms and accommodation for a caretaker at the Holland Point yacht pond to enable youngsters to waste there, a senior citizens' social club, an Indian sports day and historical totem, prizes for best models of a Spanish and English ships, a children's frolic at Memorial Arena on a school holiday, an observation tower in Beacon Hill Park, a museum, an under-sea aquarium combined with a breakwater.

PLAN FOR ALL

The firm points out "It is obvious that all these items could not be completed by 1958, but the complete project could be planned in outline to include all these items."

Best site for the fort, according to the brief, would be near the inner harbor on the Gorge or Portage Inlet waters. The fort attendants should be dressed in clothes of the period. The same would apply to attendants in the Indian village, who would be native Indians if possible, and the village could be a setting for Indian ceremonies here.

The maritime museum should include the Esquimalt naval museum as well as relics of ships of commerce and discovery which plied local waters.

Only recommendation with regard to site was that it should be near the water. The group of buildings should be together in a park area and properly landscaped and close to a recreational area.

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee likely will set the end of this month as a deadline for suggestions for a 1958 grant project, Ald. Edgelow, committee chairman, said today.

He said he will ask the provincial committee to advise the latest date at which decision must be reached on the development to be undertaken with aid of a provincial 60-cent per capita grant.

He expressed alarm at the fact the centennial year is only 10 months away and so far the 40-cent per capita celebrations fund grant has not been received by his committee.

Gregory Wants B.C. to Quit Liquor Business

A proposal that the B.C. government turn over retailing of liquor to private interests and operate the B.C. Liquor Control Board purely as a wholesale outlet was submitted to the legislature Wednesday night by George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria).

"I'd like to see the province get completely out of the liquor business," he stated. "The premier says we don't need the revenue to balance the budget... turn it over to free enterprise."

He called also for amendments which would extend the hours of liquor sales.

"It is no more sinful to drink on Sunday than on Monday—after 10.30 than after 8.30."

The member criticized liquor board policy requiring that only "canned music" can be provided in cocktail lounges. At present music must be controlled—controlled by a switch, he said.

Mr. Gregory said he had been approached by members of the musicians' union after a Victoria cocktail bar had been restricted from providing music by a man playing an electric organ.

PIPED MUSIC

He stated the lounge later removed the man and his organ across the hall and "piped in" the music and the officials were satisfied.

Mr. Gregory had criticism for a government letter sent out prior to the opening of the PGE extension last summer which called on firms to co-operate in publication of a feature edition of the Vancouver Herald.

"At the risk of being accused of carping criticism, the minister and secretary might be better employed than writing advertisements for this or any other newspaper."

On the proposed $28 tax refund for B.C. homeowners, Mr. Gregory wondered what provision the government would make where a man sold his home part-way through the year and also what provision would be made to compensate the man who owned both a city residence and a summer home, both in separate assessment districts.

OVER-RULED

He said he would welcome proposed changes in the provincial traffic regulations. As a lawyer he was aware the statutes are over-ruled at present by road signs in many cases.

"We have a traffic situation now little better than chaotic."

Mr. Gregory brought up for the 18th time the question of the proposed new courthouse for Victoria. He said he had filed questions on its site and cost 17 times in the previous House session and had never received a comprehensive answer.

He was especially worried, he said, because the campaign booklet issued by the Social Credit Association recently listed projects done and projects planned but nowhere mentioned the courthouse.

Mr. Gregory poked fun at the Victoria Social Credit organization through a photograph of a sign in the campaign offices during the last election. It read, "Elect Smith, Chant, Arsens, Regain Our Economic Freedom."

"After four years of Social Credit they want to regain their economic freedom," he jibed.

Pulp Production Doubled by '65

'Thrilling Future' Seen For B.C. Forest Industry

By DON INGHAM

Three British Columbia foresters today lifted the veil on a thrilling future for the forest industry of the province, and presented some startling views of the industry as it is today.

New products, new techniques, and new growth were reviewed for the benefit of more than 200 civil servants, scientists, businessmen and educators attending the 10th annual three-day meeting of the B.C. Natural Resources Conference in the Empress Hotel.

With G. F. "Pat" Dunn of Victoria as moderator, the second-day program was launched with an address by R. W. Wellwood, UBC forestry professor, who predicted a timber cut in the province of 10,700 million board feet in 1975. Cut in 1955 was slightly over 6,000 million.

Future production of veneer and plywood will be increased as plywood displaces lumber for many uses, he said, and other softwood species are utilized.

Production of pulp and paper is expected to double by 1965, and to double again by 1975, he said.

Newspaper production will quadruple by 1975.

Couldn't Exist Independently

"All of the major industries are closely integrated on the coast, and none could now exist independently," he said. "Growth will occur only as a result of careful attention to costs, to quality of product, and with intensive research into close utilization."

Harvesting of many "over-mature" forests in British Columbia should be accelerated in order to avoid waste and increase utilization, W. P. T. McGhee, forester, Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited, told the conference.

"Forests left in the natural state are beautiful but wasteful," said Mr. McGhee. "In the minds of many people, logging has too long been considered destructive, leaving devastation in its wake."

"What is the difference, basically, between an acre of stumps and an acre of wheat stubble? Each is unsightly temporarily, but the ugliness is soon covered by a new crop.

"Many of our old growth forests are over-mature and actually decreasing in value annually. Clearing them away is in itself good utilization because it reduces waste."

"If the idea persists in anyone's mind that old growth forests are more desirable than young forests, it should be forgotten. Young trees are just as nice to look at, they are fully as effective in water conservation, and they will yield effective economic returns if properly managed. They provide food and cover for game, and are extremely satisfactory for public recreation."

Forest Is Renewable Resource

"Finally, they add steady increment year after year to maturity, while old mature forests are either static or losing volume annually."

"We must always remember that the forest is a renewable resource. To obtain the best utilization, we must accelerate the harvesting of the over-mature forest so that the ultimate goal of sustained yield will not be jeopardized," Mr. McGhee said.

Brian B. Gattie, general manager, Western Forest Industries Ltd., gave the delegates a "new look" at wood as a secondary product, and not just as lumber, plywood or paper.

"It is processed into a multitude of every-day objects and is as ubiquitous a material as metal," he said.

"Laminating of small pieces with resins impervious to water and heat, and the impregnation of the wood itself, is producing strong, light wood girders and beams which are substitutes for steel."

"The old fallacy of wood not resisting fire has been exposed. Steel beams and girders will buckle under heat and collapse far sooner than wooden beams will give way under fire."

"It is not realized how indestructible wood can be when correctly treated. All woods are, relatively speaking, indestructible if kept protected from the air such as by being buried completely in the ground, sunk in water, or sealed with a hermetically tight covering."

Density and hardness of compressed wood compares with steel, he said. A technique devised for manufacture of airplane propellers exists for the manufacture of bolts, nuts, screws, and for other uses in which magnetic metals are banned and other metals are too soft.

"The use of veneers for shaped objects, and the building up of large boards in widths of over eight to 10 feet, and in lengths up to 40 feet, is common practice nowadays," he said.

Afternoon session of today's meeting was given over to agriculture.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—Can you tell me whether there are killer sharks and whales in Juan de Fuca Strait between here and Port Angeles? —Miss E.

A—Killer whales, or thresher whales as they otherwise are known, are common in the strait all the year round. Specimens have been sighted by many Victorians. There are no man-eating sharks in these waters.

'Beach Ball' World Globes For Classrooms or Home

By PENNY SAVER

You can travel the world at a glance with the new, attractively colored desk globes being sold in town. Something new has been added to the world... the desk world, that is. Here's a deflatable globe. That's right, this large globe, much like a beach ball, turns on a wrought iron base and axis, and when it fades, is punctured or damaged, can be replaced. Just blow it up and set it into the stand. Brightly outlined countries on plastic are easily pointed out. The globe is $29.75, and replacement of globes costs $7.

A smaller globe for your desk is fitted with rollers on the bottom so that you just steer it around the store or down the street. So you hit a little puddle, it doesn't matter, 'cause you just wash it off... it's heavy-duty plastic weave. This long, long shopping bag is brightly patterned. It rolls up somewhat like an umbrella when not in use, and is easy to carry to the store. So new, and so much more interesting to use than a plain shopping bag, they are selling for $3.49.

The family is still in rain boots on and off in our unpredictable weather, so you mothers who have been despairing over socks worn out too soon because of rubber boots will appreciate the new type of socks I found. They're meant especially to be worn inside boots. Of fit-to-the-foot rubber, they are ankle high, and cover the socks, protecting them from rubbing against boots that are worn without shoes. In children's sizes, they are 99 cents a pair. What you save in stocking costs will more than pay for them.

For your bedroom or dressing room cupboards, there are lovely cracked china door knobs. Really, they have a wooden base, with a cracked china glaze over them, so they are sturdy, but look fragile. Hand-painted with delicate flowers, they would be interesting gifts to someone who you know would be able to use them in a specific room. In white, black or red, they are $1.50 each. They're imported.

On your next shopping tour, you needn't carry your shopping bag, you know, you can wheel it. Sure... there are wonderfully large shopping bags in town that are

Life Is Fun At 10 Downing

LONDON (Reuters)—Lady Dorothy Macmillan, wife of the new prime minister, Tuesday admitted that being the prime minister's wife "is fun and exciting and interesting."

Holding her first press conference since her husband took office Jan. 10, she said that "at the moment I feel a little lost."

"I don't know what invitations to accept or reject. And some people ask me to do the maddest things. I know I see my husband more than I used to but I don't know what to do with my time between engagements."

"Now, at home in Sussex," she went on, "I could be tidying up or gardening or something."

But at 10 Downing St., the prime minister's official London residence, she said: "They won't allow you to do much there."

Dressed in black silk and sporting a scarlet velvet hat and a heart-shaped bracelet of diamonds she laughed and told the reporters that the residence "is nicely furnished. Our bedrooms are in the attic, of course."

As for hanging her own pictures, she said: "They are not good enough. The Tate Gallery supplies the pictures and they are very beautiful."

As for Chequers, the prime minister's official country residence 38 miles from London, she said it's like "living in a hotel, it isn't home."

WHY GROW OLD?

Prominent Collarbone Plagues Many Women

Many women write to ask if there is anything that can be done to correct a collarbone which is too prominent. Usually this defect is due to bone structure and is an inherited characteristic with which you arrived in this world.

If this is the case there is nothing to do about it but forget it and dress so that it is least noticeable. However, there are other factors which can be corrected.

For instance, a prominent collarbone may come from poor posture. If your shoulders slump forward, this will be the case. Try pulling your shoulders forward and you will see what I mean. If this is your trouble an improvement in posture will solve the problem.

Perhaps underweight contributes to your difficulty. All bones are more prominent when a woman is very thin. A gain of weight will make a big difference. There also are exercises which develop the muscles of the neck and chest which are helpful.

Try this one. Lie across your bed on your back with your head and shoulders hanging off of the bed. Lift your head and touch your chin to your chest. Lower head backward and continue slowly.

Another—Stand tall and raise your arms sideward shoulder height. Clench your fists hard as you swing your arms toward one another, still shoulder height. Swing the arms sideward and relax hands. Continue, swinging together and clenching fists and swinging apart and relaxing hands.

As to clothes, use the stylish

Members of the Royal Schools of Music Association met in annual session at the studio of Miss Margery Vaughan. The executive was re-elected as follows: Miss Mary Adamson, president; Malcolm Hamilton, vice-president; Miss Elsie Friend, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. B. Belchambers and Mrs. Pamela Doughty, committee. Following the business meeting Miss Clare Barrow presented a group of piano solos. Refresh- ments were served.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About an "at home" party: I am planning to entertain with an "at home" for my in- laws who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. Do I have to issue invitations or will an announcement in the newspapers be sufficient?—I don't want it to look as if we were expecting friends to send gifts.

Louise Davis answers: When giving any kind of a party, it is your responsibility to do the invit- ing yourself, either by tele- phone, written note or engraved card. You should not depend on a newspaper to in- form your friends of the anniversary. The newspaper might not be able to guarantee publication. Friends and relatives are bound to know that your hus- band's parents soon will be having a 50th wedding anniver- sary. A good compromise for the invitations (if you issue them by mail) would be: "Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Jones (on first line), Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Jones Jr. (sec- ond line), "at home" (third line), date, hours and place (below). This way there is no reference to the anniversary, even though friends will either know or guess.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

What's Up, Eric? (Correction) Doc

Should a member of the B.C. cabinet have a Bugs Bunny book on his desk? This searching question was raised Wednesday by Randolph Harding, fiery CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan.

Just what Bugs Bunny had to do with Mr. Harding's argument was none too clear. But it seemed to imply that if cabinet ministers can accommodate Bugs Bunny books on their desks they should be able to accommodate out-of-town members of the legislature who call on them between sessions.

Mr. Harding said he called on a minister who had hitherto been too busy to see him

(he was looking in the direction of Health Minister Eric Martin) and there on his desk was Bugs Bunny.

Without delving deeper into the virtues of Bugs Bunny as part of a cabinet minister's office equipment, Mr. Harding complained that MLAs had to come to Victoria six months before a session opened in order to get things done for their constituents.

He was checked by Premier Bennett, who told him members should visit Victoria once every month.

This nettled Mr. Harding. He said members in distant ridings could not afford to come here every month.

Ministers Away Fighting Elections

"And when they get here," he added, "they may find the ministers away fighting an election in some other province... They are our members as much as ministers of the province and every member of this House has a right to see them."

The title of Prime Minister was conferred on Premier Bennett Wednesday by no less a person than George Gregory, Liberal MLA for Victoria.

Mr. Gregory believed if Mr. Bennett were called Prime Minister it would lend more dignity to the House and

'Smear, Smear, Smear', Says Page

What do the uniformed page boys who run messages in the legislature think of the current session?

Mr. Gregory was curious to know. He stopped one of the boys and asked him.

"Oh," said the boy, "it's all smear, smear, smear."

Women occupied most of the seats in the public galleries during the second night sitting of the session and their eyes focused naturally on the dresses worn by the two lady members of the House—Mrs. Lois Hagen, who has succeeded her husband as the CCF member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, and Mrs.

everyone (including the prime minister) would "behave better" in consequence. The Liberal member then implemented his suggestion by referring to Mr. Bennett as Prime Minister throughout the remainder of the sitting.

The Prime Minister made no comment, but Attorney-General Robert Bonner graciously accepted the designation on his behalf.

"This designation has been used officially for many years but it has never been insisted upon," Mr. Bonner said. "It is a fair designation and it is accepted with the good heart in which it was intended."

Buda Brown, who has replaced Liberal leader Arthur Laing as the member for Vancouver-Point Grey.

Mrs. Hagen wore a beige costume, nicely offset with a corsage of red carnations. Mrs. Brown was dressed in her favorite shade of dark blue with a large white rose and a pearl necklace.

Queen, Duke Ride in Truck At Oporto

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh returned to Britain tonight from their tour of Portugal.

OPORTO, Portugal (CP) — Queen Elizabeth bounced around the cobblestone streets of Oporto in an old police truck today as she brought her state visit to Portugal to a close.

The Queen, visiting this port wine centre on her way home to London, chose the truck herself.

It was the only vehicle town officials could supply when the Queen asked for an open car so the people could see her. Normally, the truck is used to transport police squads to trouble spots.

Shouting crowds covered the roads with rose petals as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, bounced on a hard wooden bench through town.

At Oporto's 100-year-old stock exchange, 50,000 persons crowded around the royal couple.

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The $200,000,000 mid-Canada radar warning line will be in full operation in early April, assuming good weather conditions, defence department officials said.

The western section of the line — between James Bay and the Peace River district of Alberta — went into operation on schedule New Year's Day but authorities say execrable weather has delayed completion of the eastern sector from James Bay to the Labrador coast.

Meanwhile, officials disclosed that operation of the 3,000-mile line in its first year will cost about $18,000,000. This amount is included in the defence department estimates which have already been submitted to Parliament.

MANNED BY 800

The electronic fence, extending roughly along the 55th parallel, will be manned by some 800 Canadian civilians under RCAF direction. They have been trained on a test line in the Montreal-Ottawa area.

Civil Service Pay Hike for Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — A general pay increase totalling about $1,000,000 for Manitoba's civil servants was disclosed in the provincial estimates tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Provincial Treasurer C. E. Greenlay. The pay increases come very close to the demands made by the civil servants, it was understood.

For most civil servants it will mean a pay increase of between $10 and $30 a month.

Gorge Hospital To Try Out 'Open Visiting'

Gorge Road Hospital has followed the lead of Royal Jubilee and effective immediately will follow a policy of "open visiting."

Hospital administrator Mrs. Florence Muttie announced today visiting hours will be between 3 and 8 p.m. daily for a three-month trial period.

Royal Jubilee adopted the visiting hours last year and administrator George Masters has described the move as one of the wisest steps ever taken at the hospital.

St. Joseph's Hospital and Veterans' Hospital still maintain the older schedules.

Driver Cleared In Tot's Death

Death of three-year-old Wayne Clifford, who rode a tricycle from his driveway Monday afternoon and was crushed beneath the rear wheels of an oil truck, was ruled accidental by a coroner's jury today.

Driver Barry H. Kaehn, 1063 Costin, Langford, testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act that he had been about to make an oil delivery at the Clifford home, 1141 Palmer, when he saw the child playing in the driveway. He continued to the next house before backing and turning because he "felt it was safer."

Mr. Kaehn said he did not feel the child pass beneath the wheels. He looked from the cab window and saw a tiny bundle at the side of the road, but recalled, "I thought it was just a coat—until I got out of the truck and looked again."

The small boy "must have come just like lightning," he said.

Saatchi Const. Norman Baker told the jury the truck driver was in a "mild state of hysteria" when he arrived at the scene at 1:50 p.m. Rear view windows on both sides of the cab were in good condition, he said.

Funeral of the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clifford, will be held Saturday at 3, at McCall's.

FOR DEFENCE IN WAR U.S. A-Rocket Jets Allowed Over Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will allow United States jet interceptors equipped with the new atomic rockets to fly over Canadian territory in the event of an emergency, a high defence authority said today.

The authority said that emergency meant war in which the defence of the two countries might become involved. He added that there would have to be "checks and balances worked out in connection with any American flights over Canada, indicating that the Americans might be required to obtain specific approval in connection with each flight involving atomic rockets.

The U.S. announced Wednesday that the atomic rockets have been developed to blast down enemy bombers and that they have been made available to U.S. air defence forces. The rockets are designed for firing from jet fighter-interceptors.

Canada's CF-100 all-weather jet interceptor carries rockets but they have no atomic warheads, defence officials said, adding that none of the American atomic rockets are being stored in Canada.

Ike Assailed in U.K.; UN Guarantees Urged

LONDON (AP)—President Eisenhower was assailed in parliament today on the ground he failed to consult Britain before his policy statement calling on Israeli troops to withdraw from Egyptian territory.

Aneurin Bevan, Labor foreign policy spokesman, demanded that Britain notify America "it is a very undesirable pattern that the United States should be issuing statements about policy without consulting her allies."

Emanuel Shinwell, defence minister in the former Labor government, said there is "no reason why this House should condone any mistake made by President Eisenhower."

Hugh Fraser, Conservative, said "I think the question of forcing Israel back without proper guarantees for Israel's future is not acceptable."

Their statements were made shortly after the foreign office said it felt Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory should be combined with a United Nations guarantee of Israel's security in the Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza Strip areas.

The Magdalen Islands in the St. Lawrence Gulf include 16 islets with an area of 35,000 acres.

Arab states in the UN calling for sanctions against Israel are said to be preparing to introduce such a resolution when the assembly meets Friday.

A Cabinet minister said: "The CCF has no responsibilities in government policy matters, it can say what it likes."

Meanwhile, CCF Leader Robert Strachan said his party is standing by its Wednesday night statement.

The statement was based on a speech to be made in the House today by John Squire (CCF-Alberta).

The CCF is basing its contention primarily on the fact that for the first time since tax-sharing agreements started in 1942, there was no mention of renewing the agreement in the Throne Speech.

The party also noted Premier Bennett has voiced dissatisfaction with terms offered after each conference with Ottawa.

Minneapolis, who had been the Chicago White Sox's toughest hold-out, was safely back in the fold for 1957 today after talking himself into an estimated $2,500 pay raise.

Minoso, who had turned down his first offer, rang up vice-president Charles Comiskey in a Havana-to-Chicago call this week.

He told Comiskey that he was still not satisfied with the $32,500 he was paid in each of the last two seasons.

"First contract you send too rough on Minnie," he protested. "What's the matter? You no friend of Minnie any more?"

"Of course, I'm your friend," Comiskey said. "What have you in mind?"

Minoso gave Comiskey his idea of what he should get next year and there was a pause. Then he said:

"What have you in mind, Chuck?"

There was another pause after Comiskey gave Minoso his notion of what the outfielder was worth to the club.

"You throw in a little more and I sign," said Minoso.

Comiskey agreed and Minoso's holdout status ended.

POLICEMAN SEES DOUBLE FOR SURE

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Patrolman John O'Brien thought he was seeing double.

Parked one in front of the other on a Chester Street were two cars with identical 1956 Pennsylvania license plates—8DK89.

O'Brien notified the owners; Mrs. Jean E. Johnson, and lawyer Paul C. van Dyke, both of Chester. And the owners, in turn, notified the bureau of motor vehicles.

A spokesman acknowledged the error. He said the chances of such a thing happening are about one in 4,000,000.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday: Brian James Page, 1175 Hampshire, $50 and $3 costs for operating a truck on the highway with more than three-quarters of normal load, violating a temporary highway restriction.

Rodrique St. Pierre, Langford, $25 and $3 costs for operating a vehicle without licence plates.

Murdoch John, McLean, HMCS Naden, $35 and $5 costs for careless driving.

Kenneth David Ash, 356 St. Charles, $25 and $12 costs for inconsiderate driving, arising out of his action in failing to allow an emergency vehicle to pass, then following another emergency vehicle at high speed over icy roads.

Ross Clarence Gooderham, Belmont Park, $25 and $2.50 costs for driving without a licence.

John Franklin Dyer, Langford, $10 and $3 costs for operating a motor carrier without a licence.

McIlwaine Van and Storage Ltd., $10 and $3 costs for operating an over-wide truck.

A juvenile appearing in juvenile court was given six months probationary sentence and assessed $5 costs for driving without a licence.

School Need Argued By Edgelow, Golby

Statements by Victoria Alderman Geoffrey I. Edgelow that Victoria city children have adequate school accommodation today brought strong objection today from school board chairman W. H. Golby.

It was indicated a panel discussion Monday at Douglas Street CCF Hall will highlight the campaign preceding the March 9 $4,470,000 school-building referendum.

Ald. Edgelow will share a platform with Mr. Golby and a lively debate is assured.

Ald. Edgelow announced he has started an investigation of the proposed building program as it affects city taxpayers. He promised a full report at the next meeting of city council Thursday, Feb. 28.

He said under the cost-sharing school scheme, Victoria will pay 33.24 per cent of the overall cost while only 11.81 per cent of the $4,470,000 construction program will take place within city limits.

Mr. Golby said the school building plan is a continuation of a program which began in the early post-war years.

"Victoria received 47 1/2 per cent of all new construction in building programs which started in 1947 and 1955"

Victoria's neighbor municipalities paid fair shares of the first $5,489,862 building program and the second $3,077,281 program. Yet Victoria got 51.79 per cent of the new construction in the first instance and 39.86 per cent in the second program.

A new school in one section of Greater Victoria improves the school facilities in adjoining municipalities in many instances, he said.

Contrary to Ald. Edgelow's contention, Victoria does need additional schools, the board chairman stated.

"There are 980 students at Central Junior High School, which was built to accommodate 750."

"By building on to Lansdowne ($134,700 addition is planned)

Labor Council Urges Easing Of NHA Credit

Federal authorities have been asked to take "effective measures" to channel money from "less essential activities" into home building.

The Victoria Labor Council Wednesday also asked for a reduction of maximum interest rates under the National Housing Act.

Although federal credit restrictions may be necessary "to a degree" to curb inflation, heavy restrictions have reduced home construction to "a fraction of normal," the council said.

The fact that school planning overlaps municipal boundaries was further underlined in View Royal.

"The rural area of the school district is getting nothing in the way of new construction, yet actually the students from that area will receive a great deal of benefit from it."

HISTORIC REGIMENT The 1st Royal Dragoons, oldest line cavalry regiment in the British Army, was established in 1661.

$5 Million Dip in Gold U.S. Dollar Holdings OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's official holdings of gold and United States dollars dipped by $5,600,000 during the month of January to $1,930,800, the Bank of Canada reported today.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)— Because thousands of homes have to keep taps running to avoid freezing of pipes, raising consumption to "an alarming rate" the city's pumping system is in grave danger of breaking down, threatening the water supply, City Engineer George Harford warned Tuesday.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by club readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Why Does the Pupil of the Eye Vary in Size?

Elaborate, complex camera equipment is necessary to make these fascinating 3-D movies. You have that sort of equipment built right into your head. For what you see when you look around is a colored moving picture in three dimensions. What's more, your eyes can focus on things near and far. They can see what is going on at dusk as well as at bright noonday. Any man-made camera needs lots of bright light to take a good picture. But your eyes can adjust themselves to make a movie in bright light or dim light.

They do this by changing the size of the pupil. Your eyes adjust themselves to differences in the amount of light without any instructions from you. They do it automatically. Use a hand mirror to watch the magic work. If you have been out in the noonday sun, you will see that your pupils are small black dots. If you have been staring into a dim corner, the mirror will reflect large, dark pupils in your eyes. If the mirror is brightly lit, the big pupils will gradually shrink as you stare into the light.

The human eye is like a camera, but far more wonderful than any camera equipment yet invented. It is a round ball, about one inch in diameter, connected to the brain by a nerve cord. It has muscles to swivel it around and eyelids to wipe it clean and keep it moist.

The part that looks out on the world contains a window and behind it a sort of camera shutter. The window is the cornea and, of course, it is transparent. It forms a little bulge over a circle of colored tissue. This colored circle is the iris, the colored ring that makes you brown-eyed, blue-eyed, grey-eyed or green-eyed. It is separated from the cornea by a paid of clear fluid.

The pupil is, of course, the black dot in the centre of the iris. It is the sort of camera shutter, a hole to let the light into the inside workings of the eye. It looks dark because the inside of the eye is as dark as the inside of a camera. The black pupil is really a hole. Light entering through it carries an image of the scenery. It passes through the jelly stuff in the middle of the eye and strikes the opposite inside wall as a picture. The picture of the view is instantly flashed to the brain along the optic nerve cord.

When the light is normal, the shutter is about half open. The pupil is about half its full size. When the light is very strong, the inside of the eye must be protected. Too much light on the retina screen on the far wall may cause it harm. So the pupil shrinks to pin-point size. When the light is dim, the shutter opens wide to gather in as much of it as possible. Then the dark pupil spreads almost to the edge of the colored iris. A normal eye can increase its efficiency a million-fold all without any instructions from you.
